What Will America Be?

THIS IS written on "The Chief," one of many splendidly equipped trains that carry passengers between the two oceans in perfect comfort.

How long will such trains carry the passengers? Railroad men that think would have asked themselves that question could they have seen Will Rogers, traveling as an air passenger, United State mail, roaring over and past the "fast" expresses, leaving them in the distance, as the first locomotives left the old stage coaches.

Rogers paid $406 "postage" on himself from Los Angeles to New York. When the fast express had got well under way, and passengers had settled down for their four nights and a little more than four days coast to coast trip, Rogers was in Chicago. When they had gone through luncheon and dinner on their second day Rogers was in New York. By the time they reached New York he was back in California, and remember that he was flying slowly, less than 100 miles an hour. Planes already built go 300 miles an hour. Men will soon make the trip from New York to San Francisco between breakfast and dinner time as a matter of course.

When locomotives came, aged dodos said, "Nothing will ever take the place of the stage coach for REAL, RELIABLE TRAVEL." The first locomotives that made from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour killed the stage coach. What will the 200-mile an hour airplane do to long-distance railroad passenger traffic?

Infantile paralysis appeared in the castle inhabited by five-year-old King Michael of Rumania. Immediately the King was carried away to the Carpathian Mountains.

That unfortunately does not mean safety for the baby King. Nobody knows how infantile paralysis comes, what causes it, or how it is implanted in the blood of its victim.

Infantile paralysis should interest government, national, State and municipal, more than it seems to do. There are 4,000 cases in the United States now. Nobody knows how the disease starts and spreads. The disease breaks out, nobody knows how or why, in dark city streets and in distant sunlit beautiful valleys, more than thousands of miles from either ocean, and five thousand feet above them.

Such a mysterious disease among swine or cattle would be investigated and fought by the government energetically.

The Rockefeller Institute is doing admirable work, but a nation of 115,000,000 should not leave such a fight to the generosity of one man.

Young Wilfred Winters got drunk on moonshine whiskey, killed two young women, then killed himself. His grandmother says: "Before God it was not my grandson that did the killing, but the man that sold him the whiskey."

Mrs. Knapp Vanishes

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 21 (I.N.S.).—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former Secretary of State, under fire for misfeasance while in office in the distribution of State census funds, has disappeared from Syracuse and gone into hiding.

When inquiries were made today to her counsel, Alexander Otis in Albany, he confirmed the rumor that she had left the city, was not in Albany and would not be found until next week.

He said he planned a conference with her on Monday and that she would not be seen until that time.

She was last seen in Syracuse when she attended the Radio Exposition at a State armory here at 10 p. m. last night. It is believed she left the city and may be with relatives at New Bedford, Mass.

SEIZE HUB RUM SHIP

Providence, Oct. 21.—A big power sloop loaded with $75,000 worth of liquor was towed into port here today by a coast guard boat from New London.

The craft was picked up in lower Narragansett Bay last night after two shots were fired before she halted.

Four men, one who said he was Captain James Duke of Gloucester, and three of whom gave Boston addresses, were turned over to the prohibition authorities while the liquor was taken in charge by customs officials. The boat had "Rhode Island, Boston" painted on her stern

SLAIN HUB WIFE VICTIM OF RUSSIAN'S JEALOUSY IN FRENCH TRAGEDY

Her connection with a free love cult lured the beautiful Countess Marie Amelie Marcelle Vernet-Lord to her doom.

That the French nobleweman's slaying at Nice, France, was caused by her attachment to this cult, and its interest in a free love society in Southern France became known today. It was in this cult, and at this colony, that she was thrown into close association with Wenceslas De Klupfell, known as Dr. Rudy, the Russian who stabbed her to death in her chateau.

Captured at Nice, De Klupfell, of a once wealthy Russian family, confessed the murder. Also in her possession at the time, she had just received $2,500, sent her by her husband, H. Wilfred Lord, of Boston, instructor in a school in the Back Bay.

Investigators at Nice sought to learn today whether this money, and other sums she had, disappeared from her Nice chateau when she was slain.

SEARCHES GIRL'S HOSE FOR RUM; FINDS IT

Charge that one of two Weston policemen pulled down her stocking to remove a bottle of liquor was made in Waltham Court today by Miss Gladys Burgess, a brunette, but her testimony failed to save her chum, Dorothy F. Gilman, 22, of Merrian street, Greenwood.

Miss Gilman was found guilty of transporting liquor in her automobile and was fined $100 by Judge Wilson, despite testimony of Miss Burgess that the liquor was hers and that her chum did not know it was in the car.

The transportation charge was ordered brought against Miss Gilman by Judge Wilson a week ago during trial of Michael J. Galvin of Fourth street, South Boston, for drunkenness and driving while drunk. Today, with a Waltham police lieutenant refuting testimony of the same two Weston policemen, Berry and Upham, the South Boston man was acquitted.

In her testimony today, the Burgess girl testified that she carried the liquor in Miss Gilman's car, one bottle in her lap and one in a stocking. There were three men and three girls in the machine, she said.

The Burgess girl testified that she handed one bottle to one of the officers, but he insisted on pulling down her stocking, when he found the other bottle.

Miss Gilman appealed the fine.

MRS. NICHOLS IS DYING AT HOSPITAL; DOCTORS BATTLE TO SAVE LIFE

The hand of death hovered over Mrs. Carrie M. Nichols, wife of the Mayor, at Boston City Hospital today, where she became a mother three days ago. The child died Wednesday night. Mrs. Nichols was in a coma most of the day.

Following an adverse report at 11 o'clock, which brought Mayor Nichols and relatives from a hotel where they had breakfasted, his wife's condition grew steadily worse, with her temperature mounting alarmingly.

Physicians who had been on duty practically all night, worked unceasingly in their fight to drive back the grim reaper, and to aid them all construction work on the hospital was ordered suspended.

At 1:40 Mrs. Nichols emerged from the coma and asked for her husband.

The Mayor, with his wife's sister, Miss Florence Williams, and his own brother, had left the bedside a short time previously, after a long vigil.

The trio had gone outside the building to get some air, while Mr. and Mrs. Williams, parents of Mrs. Please Turn to Page 2, Column 7.

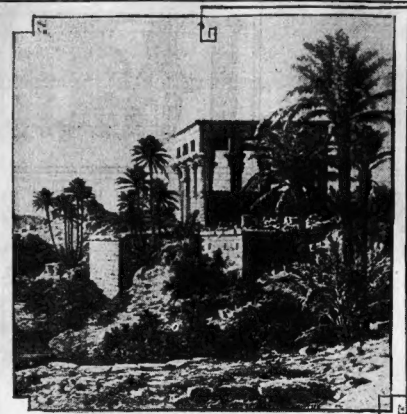
Ancient Cult of Egypt ~ Weaves Itself Into ~ Life of Slain Hub Countess

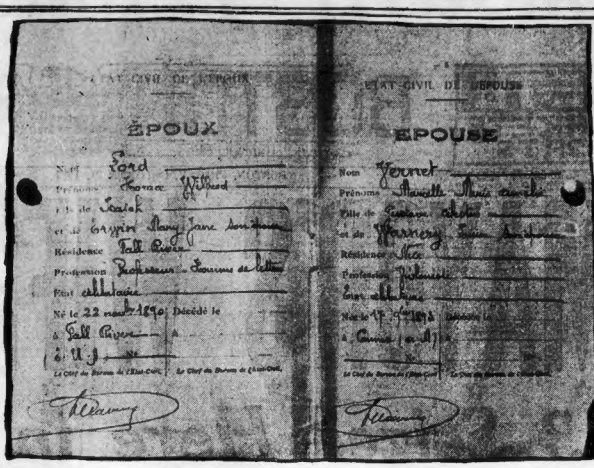


THE TEMPLE OF ISIS

This old temple is on the island of Philae, in the Nile in Upper Egypt. The island, sacred to Isis, is covered with remains of the best preserved temples of Egypt and of these, the Temple of Isis is one of the oldest. It was completed by Neos Dionysos in the first century, B. C.

GODDESS ISIS HERSELF

Principal goddess of the Egyptians, Isis represented the moon and was the sister and wife of Osiris, who represented the sun. Isis was responsible for teaching agriculture. The worship of Isis and Osiris is believed to have been the only common ritual throughout Europe.



AND SO THEY WERE MARRIED

received from France a threat, on paper, bearing the De Klupfell seal. The slayer, who has confessed, but who denies he premeditated the killing, of the Countess, is a descendant of Russian nobility.

A cablegram from Nice police today instructed Lord to hold this threat safe, pending further word from the prosecution. Apparently, it is the aim of the French police to use the threat against the husband here, in their case against the slayer later at the trial.

It also became known today that De Klupfell was under police surveillance as a "Red" suspect. He had been shadowed for some time because of radical connections, but managed to drop from sight. Then came the murder, and the hunt for him followed.

CALLED SVENGALI

Characterized by Lord as a Svengali in real life, with strange hypnotic power over women De Klupfell moved in the best society circles, it is said. In letters to her husband, the Countess herself declared him repulsive, and told of her dislike, and how she had repelled his advances.

"De Klupfell swayed many beautiful women to his will," said Lord. "I never could understand his power, but he had just that—a weird sort of hypnotism. He had what Elinor Glyna would call 'it.'"

Revealing the love cult connections of De Klupfell and of his wife, Lord assailed the Russian as a man who for several years has pursued his wife, the Countess, with his wooing.

"Her tragic end can be laid to her cult leanings," said the husband. "It was her interest in the children of the free love colony that threw her more and more closely into contact with De Klupfell; and thus his opportunity was great to try to win her from me."

"At Courmettz, an old priory the home of the cult was located. Here séances were held and the Egyptian goddess Isis was worshipped. Often the weird rites were disgusting and my wife opposed the spirit of excess in these ceremonies."

But there was another field in which De Klupfell moved in order to be thrown into association with the Countess. This was in the "astral cult," a theosophical order which was established in Southern France, in the immediate vicinity of the Countess' chateau. Its cult a theosophist, she found De Klupfell a leader in the organization. He became a sort of executive, with the title of 'Lumiere,' or 'Light.'"

It was in this "astral cult" that the Countess was thrown intimately with Isadora Duncan, its high priestess, and numerous other persons of free love tendencies. From her balcony the Countess could watch the rites of this cult under the "jasmin moon," when in fling garment. Miss Duncan danced mystically while the Russian chorus chanted in ghostly fashion.

De Klupfell is forty years old. He confessed to having killed the Countess a week ago today, though the crime was not discovered until last Wednesday.

INSANELY JEALOUS

In his confession, Klupfell told the police he and the Countess had long been intimate, but that he had tired of the "companionship" and desired to "end it all." Intending to stab himself to death, he went to her apartment to break the news to her, he said; she sought to disarm him, and in a violent struggle, the dagger pierced her heart, De Klupfell claimed.

The police, while doubting some of the confession, were inclined to believe the pair had lived together for a time at Nice; that later she permitted him to call on her only at certain hours; that De Klupfell accused her of loving a Frenchman and became insanely jealous of her.

Though crediting much of the confession in minor detail the police declared the Countess had been slain, and they felt that the slayer might have robbed her at the same time. They have learned that not long ago she sold a villa at Flan-de-Grasse, belonging to herself and her husband, for 40,000 francs and that the slayer knew she had this money in her chateau at Nice.

De Klupfell entered the Vernet household at Cannes, the home of the old Count Gustave Vernet, in 1925. The next year Lord, because of De Klupfell's admiration for the Countess, threw the Russian out of the house, the Boston husband declares. But the Russian came back during Lord's absence from France, and by the use of his love cults and other activities continued his attentions to the Countess.

TO CUT FORCE AT NAVY YARD

The threatened layoff at the Boston Navy Yard will be a reality. For a time it was thought that the work of reconditioning the Shipping Board vessel Triumph would forestall a reduction.

Officials at the Navy Yard today announced that the Triumph would not arrive for repairs until next March.

Work now waiting will keep the yard active until about the end of the year, but after that time there will probably be discharges and furloughs until March, it was said.

DUE to a severe storm at sea, affecting radio transmission, the arrival of a fresh installment of Ruth Elder's own story of her brilliant flight and the wrecking of her plane in mid-Atlantic, has been delayed. The installment will be published in the Boston Evening American as soon as it is received.

Says Love Cult Fate Stalked Countess

By FRANCES L. BAIRD

COUNTESS MARCELLE VERNET-LORD—saint or sinner?

Victim of love or defender of virtue?

What of the strange love life of this extraordinary young woman disciple of Isadora Duncan, the dancer?

Violent death claimed her just as it did her beloved Isadora; and like Isadora, she had a premonition of tragedy hanging over her for years. She wrote a poem only last week defying death!

FORETELLS TRAGEDY

Did the spectacle of the free love colony visible from her window balcony lure her on against her will to the death that she felt approaching? Or, was it simply the hand of Fate stretched out, as a Turkish seer in Algeria predicted to her in 1923.

"Tragedy will overtake you," the seer warned.

Supernatural powers and influences permeate the story of Marcelle Vernet-Lord's life, yet, through it all, the persistent shadow of the man who plunged a knife through her heart in Nice, scene of Isadora's death, runs like a sable doom.

Marcelle Vernet's romance with Horace Wilfred Lord, soldier in the American Army of Occupation at Coblenz, Germany, after the armistice, began through her translating the story of his novel, "Sonny." The last chapter of that book was to have been written when some crucial event forced "the little boy who never grew up" into full bloom.

"That chapter can be written now," cried the bereaved husband.

Her life was stalked by a strange love cult fate.

Twelve times death has struck at Marcelle's relatives and friends since she became enmeshed in the tangle of occultism and the free love colony. She, herself, was the twelfth victim.

Following seances under the "jasmine moon" in which a Madame Arnel and De Klupfell "went into astral spheres," one disaster followed another in the circle of the Vernet Lords.

CHILD STRICKEN

Marcelle's father, once the strong est and most prominent physician in Cannes, was reduced to a helpless imbecile through the death of his wife, cancer victim. Then came the suicide of their dearest friend, a young Count sold by his mother to the 'marriage market" to a rich American woman sidding for a title. He swallowed poison and cursed his mother in his farewell note.

A cousin, George Vernet, dropped dead in Saigon, Indo-China, following receipt of a letter from Marcelle. Another cousin, Suzanne Vernet, from Santa Fe, Argentina, visiting the Countess and participating in one of the "jasmine incense orgies," was forced to leave her favorite child in France for treatment for infantile paralysis, stricken while the mother sat in the occult circle on the lawn.

Adele Droz, an aunt visiting the home of the famous beauty, the Countess Marcelle, dropped dead when Klupfell came into the house. General Perrott, a close friend, was burned to a cinder in an aeroplane accident. The mother of Vanns, a poetess friend of the Countess, one morning when her daughter stepped into her bedroom, suddenly sat upright, then fell over dead without speaking.

Anna, a Greek refugee maid, who attended one of the seances, remained at the bedside until 7:45, adding their prayers to the efforts of the physicians.

At 7:45 the party left the bedside of Mrs. Nichols in the Thorndike Building and retired to a room in the administration building, where they conferred with Drs. John J. Dowling, superintendent of the hospital; William H. Robey, John T. Williams, Walter R. Mansfield, Reginald A. Margeson and Martin J. English.

The conference was a sad one and at its conclusion all the women were in tears while the Mayor's face was drawn. They were assured that the physicians would utilize every aid of modern medical science, but that the outlook was dubious.

The party then left for the Copley Square Hotel to obtain breakfast and needed rest for the women, with the intention of returning to the hospital later.

An hour after the first bulletin was issued, or at 21 o'clock, it was announced that the condition of the patient was much worse, her pulse having jumped 24 degrees.

This bulletin, which was signed by Supt. Dowling and Doctors Robey and Williams, stated:

CONDITION IS WORSE.

"Mrs. Nichols passed an uncomfortable night owing to a Warrenment of respiration. Temperature 100.2. Pulse 122. Respiration 32. Blood pressure 126."

When the information contained in this bulletin was transmitted to the Board of Trustees, in session at the hospital, Trustees Carl Dreyfus, Supt. Dowling and Assistant Superintendent Edmund W. Wilson ordered all construction work suspended.

This specifically referred to the laying of a new roof on the Administration Building, and floors in the new surgical unit adjoining the Thorndike Building, in which Mrs. Nichols was housed.

MRS. NICHOLS IN CRITICAL CONDITION AT HOSPITAL

Nichols, remained in the sick room with Dr. Margeson.

The physician ran out and located the Mayor in front of the Thorndike Building, informing him that his wife had spoken for the first time today and was asking for him.

Rushing to the bedside, Mayor Nichols was greeted by his wife, who told him she wanted to get well and go home.

The Nichols party regarded this as a good sign, believing that the frame of mind of the sick woman would play a big part in her recovery. Her sister Florence was particularly affected and wept tears of joy.

IN SAD CONFERENCE.

Physicians stated, however, that the physical condition of Mrs. Nichols was unchanged, remaining extremely critical.

The Mayor and his party did not leave the hospital during the day.

The retrograde condition occurred after a bulletin had been issued at 10 o'clock which was somewhat encouraging in its context. Signed by Dr. Reginald J. Margeson, it read:

"Mrs. Nichols is holding her own. Her pulse is 108, and of slightly better quality. Respiration is free. Temperature, 100.4. She is being fed forced fluid. She is perspiring freely, which is a good sign because it eliminates toxins from her system."

A short time before the Mayor, with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Williams of Jamaica Plain, her sister, Florence, and his brother, Nathaniel F. P. Nichols, had left the hospital to get breakfast.

Summoned when Mrs. Nichols' condition had taken a turn for the worse, they had arrived at dawn, and remained at the bedside until 7:45,

PENNED HER LOVE TO BOSTON HUSBAND

Burning love letters, some containing poetry of hers, were written by the slain Countess to her husband, H. Wilfred Lord, of Boston. In one of her last messages, she told him her affection for him would never die, and that if death came to her, she would still be his astral bride "forever and ever." She wrote splendid English, being a gifted linguist, able to speak and write seven languages. Often her words seem to show she felt the hand of the fate that was to bring her to a tragic death.

HUB SALUTES ARMY HEAD OF GERMANY

The "Tanks" today were given full credit for winning the World War by General William Heye, new commander-in-chief of the German army, who arrived in Boston for a 24-hour visit.

General Heye headed the officers who in 1918 suggested to Emperor Wilhelm that he resign.

"There is no question but that the entrance of the United States into the World War was the turning point in favor of the Allies," he said in an interview at the Touraine shortly after his arrival by train from New York.

Although insisting on the unofficial nature of his visit to this country, during which he will tour the large cities, he was given a salute of 17 guns at the Army Base. Later he visited Harvard and M. I. T.

"The people of my country have always had a warm feeling toward the people of America. Some American soldiers who, after the war, had the opportunity of getting into Germany, would say the same.

CARROLL PLANS "FIGHT BACK" ON BROADWAY

Atlanta, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.).—"I'm going back to Broadway and stage a comeback if people will give me half a break," said Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, today as he departed, freed, from Atlanta and its prison memories "forever," for New York.

Carroll walked out of the Federal prison under parole last night after serving four months of a sentence for perjury following his famous champagne bathtub party last Winter.

Carroll declared the stigma of the prison will haunt him for years, with the knowledge that his most priceless heritage — his American citizenship—is gone, all because he told a "chivalrous lie" to save his friends.

"But I'm not whining," he told reporters, "and if Broadway gives me half a chance I'll come back.

"I realize I have got to find myself. I've got to get keyed up. I hope I will come around to it when I get back to work.

"I have been living in a twisted world, a world of warm sympathies for men and women who were sufferers with me. It was a world of many revelations of fineness and trueness in men, who were what society had stamped as unclean."

Carroll and his party will arrive in New York about noon tomorrow. He is paroled in custody of Her-

Under stipulations of the parole he must not drink intoxicants, must not be seen in the company of questionable characters and must remai in New York State.

Carroll has not yet emerged from the clouds that enveloped him when he departed for prison. Carroll's story of that experience is one of torment.

"I had no fear of going to prison," he said, "but there was the thought, getting heavier every day, that I was a branded man.

"It was the conviction and its stigma, not the prison, that haunted me.

COURT GIVES HER A CURFEW HOUR

It's bedtime for her when it's 11 p. m. for everybody else. Anna Bornstein, 18, whom Judge Murray in Roxbury court ordered to be in bed every night by 11—or go to jail. Her father testified she stayed out nights and would not mind. She was charged with shoplifting.

THE FARTHER AWAY FROM BROADWAY A NEW YORK MAN GETS, THE MORE ICE

A NEW YORK MAN, WHO WORE PINK SPATS AND A CHECKERED VEST WENT TO VISIT A COUSIN IN THE FAR WEST.

"GREAT HEAVENS!" EXCLAIMED THE NEW YORKER WHEN TOLD THERE WAS NO MANICURE PARLOR IN TOWN, AND THEY HAD NEVER HEARD OF AN ALLIGATOR PEAR SALAD!

BEFORE HE LEFT TOWN HE TOLD THE LOCAL EDITOR THAT THE WEST MUST HAVE A GREAT FUTURE, BECAUSE THERE WAS SUCH A LOT OF ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT!

A FEW WEEKS LATER THE COUSIN CAME TO THE METROPOLIS IN THE CABOOSE OF A CATTLE TRAIN LOADED WITH HORSES.

HE FOUND THE NEW YORK MAN AT "DINNER" ONE ARMING A HOT DOG AND ROLL AND A SHAVING-MUG CUP OF COFFEE — LATER THEY STOOD UP IN "KEITH'S"!

MRS. GRAYSON'S HOP HALTED

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 21.—Shifting winds developing from the West today delayed the take-off of Mrs. Frances W. Grayson's "Dawn" for European points and forced the crew to postpone the start until late afternoon.

Navigator Brice Goldsborough and Pilot Wilmer Stutz were hopeful that before low tide the wind might shift a few degrees to the south, providing a tail wind and a run on the hard sand of the beach.

Indications were that Mrs. Grayson would wait for the diminishing wind that comes with the setting sun.

CARROLL TO 'FIGHT HIS WAY BACK' ON GAY BROADWAY

prison.' And all at once I knew I could not face them.

"This knowledge deepened when I heard someone say: 'Is that poor devil on this train?' A panic came over me, and I felt I could never face the world again.

"I had not eaten for hours, perhaps not all day. I didn't know. I only knew I was weak and beaten down. I lay there. Shut away from the messenger boy and the summons of the world.

"When the train reached New York and I might have slipped into a restaurant, I hurried away, still without food, without having to face the eyes.

"Back at my office there was more work. Nothing seemed to have been accomplished, and the next day I must go away. I was up all that night. I must have been an automaton. No sleep, no food. And there is no recollection of anything I did.

"I have a memory of faces, white and confused, but staring at me. But I have no memory of much else—certainly not of leaving New York the next day.

"There is an impression of sitting with my brother, Jim, and watching the moonlight on the clouds. That moonlight on the clouds somehow stands out vividly, perhaps because there is nothing else in my memory. Not the train's start, not any of the figures of my companions, not my undressing and retiring in my berth, remain with me.

"There is only a blank, which seemed to last for an incalculable time. And actually it lasted for days and weeks. While I was in the hospital I remember nothing of my experience, except an impression of great kindness and watchfulness.

"The doctors there did everything humanly and scientifically possible. There is no question that they saved me. But there came an end to what they could do, and the real depended on me.

"But there was also an end to what I could do for myself, and what I wanted to do for myself, and it was for the best that I was moved to Atlanta. Nothing more could have been done at Greenville, and the change was the thing that was necessary.

"In Atlanta Dr. Neilans and Warden Snook took over the job and accomplished the rest of what was necessary to save me.

"The big thing they did was to awaken me and to get me to do for myself what only I could do for recovery."

Carroll looks even younger than his thirty-five years. Upon leaving the prison he wore a modishly cut suit of brown of expensive material which was a part of his wardrobe in the old days. It was a favorite suit, which Carroll selected for the occasion.

MARY ALMY TO WED JOHN ADIE

The Almy and Adie families, both prominent in Boston society, were doubly linked today in announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Louise Almy to John Wright Adie, Harvard '28.

Miss Almy, who lives with her father, William Almy, at No. 191 Commonwealth avenue, made her debut in the season of 1925-26 and is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

John Wright Adie played football at Harvard and is now associated with the firm of Townsend Anthony & Tyson, State street bankers. He is a member of the Tennis and Racquet and the New Riding clubs and lives at "Woodlands," in Heath street, Chestnut Hill, where his mother, Mrs. Andrew Adie, is to give a tea in honor of Miss Almy on October 29.

RECEIVER FOR ADAMS HOUSE

With the appointment in Federal Court today by Judge James A. Lowell of Frank H. Jenkins of Braintree as receiver for the George G. Hall Company, operators of the Adams House, assurance was given by the three creditors of the concern that the famous hostelry would remain open for business.

The Hall company was petitioned into bankruptcy a few days ago on alleged claims in excess of $16,000.

Representatives of the creditors, petitioning for a receiver, told the court that the financial difficulties of the Adams House had been precipitated by recent additions in the Boston hotel field.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Stage at Willowdale All Set for Myopia Meet Tomorrow

THE STAGE AT WILLOWDALE is all set for the Myopia meet, tomorrow. Horses are in the pink of condition, and riders have at hand all those dandy blouses and caps that dress the affair up so very brightly. All the favorites, both mounts and riders, are down in the list just sent out by Thomas G. Frothingham, clerk of course, who yearly compiles for his fellow Myopians this most important information. Mr. Frothingham's entry list covers competitors for five cups.

OLD STANDBYS, THE MYOPIA Challenge, the Turner Hill and the Willowdale are town. Then there is the second race for "The Ambitious Plate," and lastly the New England Hunts Team Cup, this to be probably the most spirited contest of the morning. Hunt teams of three horses each, the riders wearing hunt colors, will go dashing over the hurdles and round the splendid steeplechase course for which Willowdale is famous hereabouts. The Quansett, the Norfolk and the Myopia teams will do their prettiest going, for competition is keen. Immediately after the meet there will be a drag hounds run.

FOR A WEEK OR MORE A youthful Royal Navy man has been in town visiting relatives and doing a round of festivities arranged to make his stay pleasant. He is Lieutenant Commander Roger Talbert, of His Majesty's Ship "Capetown," and counts among his Boston kith and kin the Schleisinger family. This includes the Misses Braggiotti, Mrs. Jasper Whiting, the Lovell Littles, the James A. Parkers and Barthold Schleisinger. With such a galaxy of lively people to entertain for him, the navy officer's stay has been crammed full.

THERE WAS AN OPERA PARTY to hear the San Carlo Company do Pagliacci, and there was a luncheon, with Mrs. Jasper Whiting as hostess, and a dinner before the theatre with the Lovell Littles entertaining. The opera group included Miss Gloria Braggiotti, Miss Berthe Braggiotti, Isadore Braggiotti, Miss Barbara Little, the Lieutenant Commander and Edmond Briggs. Miss Little was in a costume of rose velvet, Miss Gloria wore a metal cloth of iridescent tints and gold and Miss Berthe wore a stunning green mandarin coat over a sheath frock of fringed white.

THE ISADORE BRAGGIOTTIS have had the young navy man as their house guest during his Boston stay. Now he is about to rejoin his ship at New Bedford, where she is now after the usual Summertime North Atlantic cruise which His Majesty's ships in these waters make to the Northward as far as Halifax and thereabouts.

PRINCESS MICHAEL CANTACUZENE

The former Clarissa Curtis has gone back to her Chicago home after a Summer at Nahant. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis.

The Braggiotti family, by the way, has an interesting debutante within its ranks. Miss Gloria is about to make the social essay under the wing of her accomplished elder sister, Miss Berthe Braggiotti.

FOR MISS GLORIA THE SOCIAL path through a debutante season should be one festivity crowding upon another. She is highly accomplished and extremely individual, and, beside being most popular, has a score of doting relatives to do the honors. And as for friends, the Braggiottis have them here, there and everywhere, and they'll all adore doing pleasant things for the bud. The one regret is that Miss Francesca Braggiotti is not here for the coming out. This charming girl lingers in Hollywood, having turned her attention to the cinema as a means of expressing her terpsichorean arts.

SPEAKING OF THE DEBUtantes, Miss Polly Beals, in a gold cloth gown at the Opera, was a pretty sample of this year's crop, in the blue-eyed, fluffy-haired type of girlishness. Miss Beale is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Beale of Chestnut Street, and several pleasant things are in store for her. She, too, is specially accomplished, with a fine mastery of that difficult art of fancy skating. She belongs to the Skating Club and puts in hours and hours at the Arena during the skating season.

UNTIL SUCH TIME AS THEIR own clubhouse is finished, the Charlotte Cushman folk will continue to drink tea and dance in the State suite of the Copley-Plaza.

Isadore Braggiottis Entertaining Young British Naval Officer

Selling Tuesday afternoon next for the first of this Winter's occasions, the club's members will be hosts to stars of the stage and to those of everyday life who love to meet the footlights' favorites in off-stage moments. Mrs. Malcolm French, leader of the Cushman organization, has enrolled some important society matrons as sponsors.

MRS. ALVAN TUFTS FULLER, Mrs. Walter C. Baylies, Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth and Mrs. Edwin Farnham Greene are some of those who will be in the receiving line, if such an informal occasion as the Cushman teas can be said to have a receiving line. The teas fill a very pleasant niche and, bringing together as they do people of the stage and society, they are unique. Sometime in the near future the club will have its own home. That is the goal for which everyone is working.

Pound of Coffee and Free Lot as a Chaser

A pound of the Mocha and Java got you one today in Medford, where a grocer gave away a lot of land with each pound of coffee sold—"Only two pounds to a customer."

The lots are in Westford and each lucky customer was assured that the taxes for the current year have been paid. But the lots are only 1,600 square feet each and you'd need a couple at least to give breathing space.

But any lot is a lot, at that, when it's free.

SEEK INJUNCTION UPON MERRYMOUNT AUTO SHOP

A petition for an injunction to restrain Reuben A. Grossman of Quincy from continuing an automobile accessory shop at Sea street and Narragansett road, Merrymount, Quincy, was heard by Judge Morton in the Equity Merit Session of Suffolk superior court today. The petition was filed by Attorney William S. Kinney in behalf of Hardy A. Abbott, Frederick W. Richardson and Helen J. Faud, owners of adjoining property, who charge that Grossman violated building restrictions. The matter was taken under advisement.

Broadway Deader Than When Legs Were Limbs

New York, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—Folks who think that Broadway is almost as wild as the Arabian Nights should listen to Belle Livingston talk about the naughty section. Belle is an actress and is back after a successful tour of Europe. She was a star here in the days when legs were limbs.

"There is no gaiety in New York any more," said Miss Livingston. "It cannot compare with the days of thirty years ago. It may be prohibition, but something has put the town full of gloom. Even the stuff bootleggers claim hasn't a coffin in a carload cannot put any life into New York."

FIVE BREAKS IN CAMBRIDGE

Safes and cash boxes were smashed open today in five Cambridge business offices, the safe-breakers escaping with $733.50 in cash, dresses valued at $200 and other articles valued at about $200.

The major part of the cash $700, was secured in Berry's Furniture Store on Massachusetts avenue, where the safe was cracked. The yeggmen used gloves.

Next the photo-finishing establishment of Charles B. Belcher, also on Massachusetts avenue, was robbed of $16, the cash box being broken open. Also the intruders secured a $50 typewriter.

In the same building, the thieves forced a strong box in the printing plant of Louis F. Weston, obtaining $17.41 in cash and a $12.50 check.

The fourth break was at the office of the R. & H. Dress Mfg. Co., from where the dresses and $10 in cash vanished.

In the fifth and last robbery, in the shop of K. Boyazian, on Prospect street, the visitors secured only $1 in pennies.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Opening a bottle of forty-yearold wine and drinking the last toast to departed comrades, surviving members of the Last Two Men's Club of Company C, Eighth Minnesota, held their final meeting and disbanded the club here.

Meeting with the veterans were Mrs. Vollgney, Mrs. F. Jarchow, Mrs. William Giesel, Mrs. William Gallagher, Mrs. Winslow Staples and Mrs. David Carchiel, all of Stillwater.

The bottle which contained the wine will be given to the Minnesota State Historical Society, to will the flag carried by the company. The emblem was made by wives of company members. WOMAN IN TEST PARKING CASE

As a test case to determine whether owners and residents can park their autos in private ways owned by them, Miss Louise Hall forty-five, of No. 9 Hilliard place, Cambridge insurance broker, went on trial today in Middlesex Superior Court.

The case is up on an appeal from a $1 fine imposed by Judge Stone in East Cambridge District Court upon Miss Hall.

She was arrested on a charge of violating the parking rules when her auto for some time remained parked on Hilliard place.

Miss Hall will contend that a private way is the property of the abutters on the private way, and in that capacity they have the right to park their cars for as long a time and whenever they want to.

Police will contend that it is a violation of the rules and also a fire hazard. They allege it would seriously impair the efficient work of fire apparatus in event of a fire and that parking in these places would interfere with other residents.

CHINESE PIRATE LAIR FIRED BY SUBMARINE

Hongkong, China, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—The war against pirates who prey on shipping along the Chinese coast has been carried into their stronghold at Bias Bay by the British submarine L-4.

After rescuing the crew of the steamer Irene, which had been captured by the pirates, the submarine attacked and set their lair afire, 40 miles north of here, according to the Chinese Merchants Steam Navigation Company, owners of the Irene.

PASSENGERS ROBBED.

Wednesday the Irene was attacked while Captain Johnsen and officers were at breakfast. The pirates shot the steward and overpowered the officers. The passengers were robbed.

Ordering the vessel to slow down, the Pirates spent their time gambling and eating. The Irene reached Bias Bay at night.

The submarine, anchored near shore, observed the vessel was without lights and flashed a signal to halt, which was disregarded. The submarine then fired several shots across the bows.

SHELL WRECKS ENGINE.

The captain, on the bridge under guard, rang for the engines to stop, but the pirates forced the engineer to continue.

The submarine then dropped a shell into the engineroom. The engine was disabled. A pirate, about to shoot the engineer, was killed.

The crew of the Irene started to jump overboard and the submarine went alongside. Crew and passengers were rescued with great difficulty because of heavy seas.

TAYLOR'S COUNSEL WILL APPEAL DEATH VERDICT

Counsel for George Taylor, dancing barber found guilty by an Essex County jury of the murder of Stella Kale on the sands of Salisbury Beach June, is planning an appeal to the Supreme Court.

This proposed appeal has the effect of staying Taylor's sentence to the electric chair until some time in January.

Taylor, whose real name is Elmer E. Thompson of Bridgeport, O., does not appear to be disturbed by the shadow of the death chair, and in Salem jail issued a statement protesting his innocence and expressing the hope that the "real slayer" will come forward in time to save him.

LAYS PLANS TO HANDLE BIG CHRISTMAS MAIL

Washington, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Two months before the beginning of the big Christmas rush of mail, Postmaster-General New has begun preparations for handling the ever-increasing volume of packages, cards and letters. Christmas falling on Sunday, he has given notice to postal employes that on that day the usual routine will be followed, but that on Monday, only morning deliveries will be made.

Early mailing is the real solution of the Christmas postal problem, officials say. Stress will be placed on use of the special delivery service on account of Christmas falling on Sunday.

MILLIONS WAGERED AT VILLAGE GAMING TABLES

Buffalo, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Police of Collins, Erie County, responding to a tip that gambling was going on in the village fire hall, conducted a raid which ended in apoplexy. They found gaming tables in plenty, but the money in use proved to be German marks, bet by the millions. Conducting the games were many of the best citizens of the town.

It was explained that the affair was for the benefit of the United Snyder Association, an organization of citizens, that all winnings were returned by patrons and that highest winners received prizes. The police withdrew.

MARRIAGES AND BIRTHS IN BRITAIN FALLING OFF

London, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—The British marriage market is in a slump. Figures issued by the register-general show only 14.3 persons a thousand were married in 1926, with the exception of 1917 the lowest recorded in forty years.

The birth rate is the lowest since civil registration was established. The number of children born was 694,563, the lowest total recorded since 1869 when the population was only 19,200,000 about one-half of the population figure for last year.

HYNOTISED DRUNKS SAY "NEVER AGAIN!"

Leningrad, Oct. 21.—Drunks are being cured by hypnotism. One Professor Bechterlev gets them in groups, hypnotizes them into keeping a hand or a foot in the air, and gives them autosuggestive phrases like "never again" to repeat daily for a month. Then they shun vodka.

GERMAN PLANE FORCED BACK IN HOP TO U. S.

Lisbon, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.).—The Heinkel plane D-10, which is attempting a flight from Germany to America, and which hopped off here at 6:45 a. m. today for the Azores, returned after being in the air ten minutes. The pilot explained that a slight mishap had befallen the motor, making repairs necessary.

54 STOWAWAY CHINESE FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Freemantle, Eng., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Fifty-four Chinese were found lying unconscious in the hold of the Dutch steamer Almakerk, which arrived here. They were stowaways and are believed to have boarded the ship at Port Said.

11's Some Pipe

Birmingham, Eng., Oct. 21.—Prime Minister Baldwin, who consumes tobacco in the same manner as Mr. Dawes, has a new pipe, a love affair of cherry, presented by students. He has to carry it over the shoulder like an axe.

MAYORS, ELKS, POLICE ATTEND BLYTHE RITES

With probably the largest funeral in the history of Revere, Sergeant John L. Blythe of the Revere police was accorded final honors today.

The Mayors of two cities, chiefs of police and police representatives of four outside cities, every member of the Revere official family and more than 400 members of the Revere Lodge of Elks attended services at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

In the church itself more than 1,200 persons were crowded, while outside in the street were nearly as many others unable to get in.

ALL POLICE IN LINE.

The funeral of the police sergeant was conducted from the home of his father, John Blythe, No. 526 Beach street, Revere, and in the slow procession from there to the church every Revere policeman walked, headed by Captain William E. Tappan.

Rev. John J. McEachern celebrated solemn high mass of requiem; Rev. John J. McGinley was deacon and Rev. Timothy J. Holland was subdeacon.

Six Revere policemen were pallbearers. They were Lawrence J. Dugan, John J. Delaney, Amos Macauley, Frank J. Nolan, J. Andrew Tracy and Henry Blackmar.

POLICE CHIEFS THERE.

As the procession passed Revere central fire headquarters, the four pieces of fire apparatus were drawn up outside, with whistle sounding mournfully and the firemen stood at attention.

Present at the church were Mayors John E. Walsh of Revere and John J. Whalen of Chelsea; Chiefs of Police Tighe of Revere, Walter Reeve of Swampscott, Daniel Phalen of Salem and Charles N. Finn of Chelsea; Police Captain John T. Ferry of Lynn, and Edward O'Hara, representing the office of Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

MEXICAN TRAIN BANDITS TRAPPED AND EXECUTED

The Federal troops pursued the bandits into the mountains. Two bandits were killed in battle. Four others were captured and executed on the spot. The government stated that the Federal forces were still pursuing the remaining members of the band, which originally totaled sixty.

GIRL FREED OF RING THEFT CHARGE

The absorbing puzzle, "Who Took the Ring?" was solved by Judge Stone in East Cambridge District Court today and a courtroom nodded its approval when he acquitted pretty Jane Haggerty 19, of Arlington street of a larceny charge.

The complainant was one Fred Luciano, who swore out a warrant against the comely miss charging her with theft of a ring. He testified that he met her one fine day and after a few moments of mutually interesting talk she asked him for the piece of jewelry. She admired it so much, he went on, that he took it from his finger and placed it upon hers. She then disappeared, he concluded.

But it was a different angle of the tale unfolded to the court and an interested audience when Miss Haggerty took the stand. She met him one fine day, she testified, and they did talk for a while. But he became so charmed with her personality and poise that he forced a "cheap" ring upon her finger. Later she went home, forgetting all about the circlet.

Saluted in Hub

GEN. WILLIAM HEYE New commander-in-chief of the German army arrives in Boston on tour of American manufacturing plants, universities, airports and military establishments.

FORBES SAYS HE CAN'T PAY FINE

Leavenworth, Kas., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veteran Bureau, seeing two years in the Federal penitentiary here for conspiracy to defraud the government, told Warden T. S. White he has no money to pay his $10,000 fine, upon which his release next Thursday is contingent, the warden said today.

Forbes, whose sentence, minus 144 days for good behavior, ends Thursday, has the alternative of paying the fine assessed upon his conviction and obtaining release or making a pauper's affidavit before a United States commissioner here and serving 30 days more.

Warden White said Forbes had not indicated whether he would sign the pauper's affidavit.

ARMY FOR DEFENSE.

"The German army today is a small but well-trained force for purely defensive purposes. It is neither large enough nor adequately equipped—having no tanks, heavy artillery or military aviators—to meet the forces of any of the present great powers.

"The fact that the Control Commission was recently recalled from our country proves that Germany's disarmament is completed."

In civilian attire General Heye arrived here accompanied by his son, Lieutenant William Heye, and Colonel Condon, American military attache in Berlin. The party was met by Major-General Preston Brown, commandant of the First Corps Area, and Colonel John Hughes. General Heye will leave Boston tomorrow morning to attend the Yale-Army football game at New Haven.

MISSING WIFE OF PASTOR SEARCHED FOR IN WOODS

Washington, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Acting on information that a woman answering her description had been seen in woods near Randall Highlands, a suburb, police today searched there for Mrs. Anne Ramsey Forbush of Canandaigua, N. Y., who disappeared from a theatre here Wednesday night, where she and her husband, the Rev. Dascomb Forbush, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Canandaigua, had attended a performance.

An overwhelming desire for absolute solitude, since an attack of influenza while engaged in war work at Baltimore, is believed to have prompted the woman to vanish, as she had done on several previous occasions.

84 PARALYSIS DEATHS TO DATE

Deaths from infantile paralysis for September exceeded the total number of fatalities from the same disease, for the entire twelve months of 1926.

Statistics compiled in the office of Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook show 44 infantile paralysis deaths for 1925. For the nine months of this year the total is 84.

Eighteen new cases of the disease were reported today to the State Department of Public Health, bringing the total number of cases for the month up to 298, and for the year to 901 cases.

The present year's record is the second highest in the State since the disease was made reportable in 1909. The peak year was 1916 when 1,927 cases were recorded.

Girls! Here's the Proper Togs When You're In Air

London, Oct. 21 (I. N. S.).—Even though Ruth Elder attempted her transatlantic flight garbed in plus fours and a wind-breaker, this is not to be the chic flying garb.

London modistes are the first to enter the field with smart flying clothes.

The latest model flying suit consists of breeches and gaiters of fine black corduroy, fitted in the manner of jodhpur breeches. These are so designed that the wearer can attach a skirt for wear over the breeches when not flying. The jacket to match is double-breasted and is worn over a black silk blouse, which is embroidered with flying wings. A black leather flying coat, with scarf and wrap to match completes the ensemble.

headquarters as suspicious persons. The other was charged with illegal possession of firearms. He is Joseph Lombardi of Broadway, Chelsea.

Lombardi, with two companions was taken into custody on Hanover street, North End, while riding in an automobile. A gun, police said, was found in the automobile. The others gave their names as Carlo Rompono of Pamela place, Revere and Frank Caruso of Hanover street, North End.

As Lombardi was driving the car, the gun charge was placed against him.

The prisoners were remanded to the city prison for the night. Today all will be taken back to headquarters to be fingerprinted and photographed. Those having previous records, Livingston said, will be put into court.

Special attention is being paid to the less frequented streets and alleys of the city, according to the police, in an effort to break up gangs of thieves. The squad is divided into several groups, each operating in a fast automobile, with three or more shotguns in each machine.

'SMOKE, GIRLS, SMOKE IF YOU WANT WOMEN FREED'

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Girls should smoke cigarettes and wear short skirts, in defiance of convention, if the world is to strike a death blow at established sex institutions, Professor William M. Sheldon of the psychology department of the University of Wisconsin told members of the Psychology Club.

Professor Sheldon declared it is necessary for girls today to free themselves intellectually, and commented that the flapper is the hope of the race.

Student suicides, Professor Sheldon said, are the result of students imbibing religious mythology and then being unable to adjust their lives to modern teachings.

MILDRED HILL THROUGH WITH STAGE, SHE ASSERTS

Butte, Mont., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Mildred Richardson Hill, former Follies beauty, seeking separation from Walter Hill, son of the late James J. Hill, will not return to the stage, she says.

HOPE HELD FOR LOST FLIERS

Quebec, Que., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Provincial authorities today believed that Count Jacques De Lesseps and his mechanic, missing fliers, were safe at some inaccessible point in eastern Quebec.

This belief was expressed when the Department of Lands and Forests announced that airplane wings reported found in the St. Lawrence River turned out to be a very small part of one wing and could not be identified from the De Lesseps plane.

Count De Lesseps set out from Gaspe for Val Brillant, 75 miles away, Tuesday, on a map-making flight. G. C. Piche, chief of the forestry service, said it is not unusual for planes used for surveying in that section to be unheard from for two or three days, and expressed the belief De Lesseps had come down at some inaccessible point to avoid the storms that have raged there continuously since his disappearance.

HUNDREDS MET 'FILM MOTHER'

Several hundred movie fans thronged Commonwealth Pier today and caught a glimpse of Mary Carr, the "little mother of the films," who arrived from New York on the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland and departed on the same vessel for Hamburg where she will make a new picture.

"I'm going to make this trip a vacation, too," she said. Told that Captain Conrad Luck, veteran seaman, was making his last voyage in command of the liner, she added, "Well, even if I am on vacation, I'll be a mother to him on the way across."

Her two children, Louella and Stephen, were with her and all stood at the rail to acknowledge the greetings of the crowd. In a mock stage-whisper, the favorite film "mother" said:

"Oh my, isn't it too bad I'm going to be a grouchy old grandmother in my next picture."

"POODLES" TO GIVE AWAY BALLOONS AT SHUBERT

That great delight of the children, a regular circus balloon, will be personally presented by "Poodles" Hanneford to every child attending the performance of "The Circus Princess" at the Shubert Theatre tomorrow afternoon. All the kids need do is to go back on the stage after the performance and meet the great clown, who will give each one his special "Poodles" balloon.

He served many churches about Boston, among them Epworth Church, Cambridge.

He is survived by his wife and four children, Miss Emily M. Cheney, teacher, Staten Island, N. Y.; David M. Cheney, Boston, formerly on the faculty of Tufts College, now an advertising writer, and Misses Eleanor R. Cheney and Edith L. Cheney, at home.

MILTON CAR KILLS RHODE ISLAND MAN

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Frank Correute of Providence, a laborer, working for the Blackstone Valley Gas & Electric Company of this city, was killed early this afternoon on Mendon road, Cumberland, several miles north of here, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Frank W. Neff of Milton.

Neff was held by the police, who say will be arraigned on a charge of manslaughter.

MOTOR REGISTRARS TALK OVER UNIFORM U. S. LAWS

A discussion of uniform motor laws throughout the country featured the fourth quarterly meeting of the Eastern States Motor Registrars' Association at the Elks Hotel today. Robbins Stoodley, president of the association, presided and after the meeting the members motored through the suburbs for an inspection of traffic regulation.

COSTS CITY $55,000 TO ABANDON CONTRACT

The abandonment of a contract calling for a $340,000 central fire station at Shawmut avenue and Tremont street, South End, cost the city of Boston $55,176. This was the sum agreed upon for settlement of a suit brought against the city by Alco Constructing Company, Inc., for breach of contract. The location was found to be unsatisfactory after award of the contract and the sum of settlement represents the profit the construction company might have realized on the award.

CLERK OF COURT SAYS GOODWIN IS MISTAKEN

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin's statement that not a motorist has been convicted under the ordinance which requires a motorist to slow down for pedestrians was declared in error today by Fred Simmons, assistant clerk of the Dorchester court. Simmons asserted that he had sent a record of at least one victim to Registrar Goodwin and possibly two such records.

YACHT BLOWS UP, AND FOUR MAY LOSE LIVES

St. Petersburgh, Fla., Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—Four men were probably fatally injured and a $25,000 yacht, the Josephine, was destroyed today when two 300-gallon tanks of gasoline blew up. Van Jefferson Chandler, Jack Hayward, Henry Lewis, all from Gulfport, Miss., and Charles H. Hathaway, a bystander, are in a hospital, seriously burned.

GIRLS SEEKING ROMANCE

Seeking adventure and romance, two Revere school girls are on their way to New York, according to a letter received by the mother of one of them today.

Boston and New York police are aiding Chief Tague of Revere in a search for them. The girls are Rose Tepper, fourteen, and Evelyn Hill, fifteen, who live in the same house in Highland street.

They started for the Junior High School yesterday morning but did not come home at noon. The letter, received by Mrs Tepper, was mailed in Boston but it gave no hint of where it was written.

The girls asked for permission to "take a trip" several weeks ago, according to Mrs. Tepper, but the request was refused.

'Hoot' Gibson to Film His Own Movies Now

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—From cowboy to producer sounds as if Horatio Alger had a movie inspiration.

Alger might have written such a success tale, t-o. If he had ever heard of "Hoot" Gibson, film actor. "Hoot" has been with Universal Pictures Corporation for many years. Now his contract expires and he wants to make his own pictures.

At first Carl Laemmle tried to talk him out of the idea. But when he found "Hoot" wanted to emulate Gloria Swanson, Corinne Griffith and other film celebrities and make his own pictures, he asked that Universal be allowed to do the financing. "Hoot" agreed to let it be said with five-year contract, which bears the new and intriguing title "Hoot" Gibson Productions," to be distributed through Universal.

His first will be "The Roaring Rider," written by Arthur Guy Empey and directed by Reeves Eason.

BIG FILM HELD BACK.

I suppose "What Price Glory" will always remain a goal to everyone on the Fox lot. Not only because it is such a good picture but because it has been making money, and that, my friends, is an infallible standard for judging any picture. Raoul Walsh will gather as much of the "What Price Glory" cast together as possible to play in "The Cock-eyed World." Dolores Del Rio, who leaves for Mexico City for a visit as soon as she finishes "Ramona," will be borrowed for the feminine lead, while Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe will be Mr. Walsh's choice for his leading men.

Universal cannot possibly realize any returns on their $250,000 investment in "Broadway" until 1929. There is a stipulation in their contract forbidding the film version to be released before that date.

ACTORS ON HOLIDAYS.

Alfred Cohn, who has been in New York and who is returning to Hollywood with Carl Laemmle and family, has been engaged to write the scenario. He strongly favors Marshall Neilan as the director and has mentioned his preference to Universal. Whether or not Mickey gets the job is not yet set. He has always wanted to direct "Broadway," because he believes it is his kind of a story. Edmund Goulding is another Broadwayite who has looked with longing eyes on this play since it was first mentioned as a film possibility.

The familiar faces are increasing at Columbia studios. It isn't safe for any star to talk five minutes with Harry Cohn, for if he isn't careful he gets his John Hancock on a piece of paper. Jack Holt was caught off his guard and signed for a picture at Columbia a few weeks ago. He liked the experience so well that now he has signed for the pictures and this time of his own volition. His first will be "The Warning," with Dorothy Revier as his leading woman. The second is still among the unnamed.

Now that Fanny Brice is all divorced and can concentrate on her work, she is getting ready to think about her first picture for Asher, Small & Rogers. Production will start on April 1, and the only thing missing is the story. However, Miss Brice has talked with Edna Ferber and has tried to sell Miss Ferber the idea of writing an original, and if she does, it ought to be a story worth filming. Edna can write—and how

GIRL CAPTURES CHECK SUSPECT

It developed when Frank M. Loteridge, of Lynn, Chelsea, Salem and other cities, came into court today, charged with tendering a worthless check to a Boylston street furniture company in payment for rugs that the man is wanted in at least five other police stations in this city.

A score of plain-clothes officers were ready today to file complaints that he "dropped" at least fifty checks during his short stay in this city and that he received change from purchases that will mount into hundreds of dollars.

The arrest of Loteridge was brought about through the watchfulness of a saleslady and cashier employed by the furniture concern. She recognized his face from posters sent out by the Retail Merchants' Protection Agency and turned him over to Traffic Policeman Thomas P. Walsh.

Loteridge pleaded not guilty and was held in $3,000 bail for a hearing one week from today.

PEACE PRIZE WINNER DIES WHILE SPEAKING

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 21 (A. P.).—Dr. Charles Herbert Levermore, 71, winner of the $100,000 Bok peace prize, dropped dead here while addressing a women's organization on plans to promote world peace. His physicians said death was caused by heart disease.

He was a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at the University of Kansas. He was president of Adelphi College Brooklyn, N. Y.

FIND AIRPORT ESSENTIAL TO PROSPERITY

A new opportunity for New England in transportation and industry lies ready at hand through the use of the airplane.

Arthur L. Richmond, chairman of the aviation committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, drove this point home at a hearing before the special State commission on aviation today at the State House.

"Because of the geographical location of New England, the airplane is an economic necessity," he declared. "It provides an opportunity for our industries to compete on even terms with businesses of the Middle and Far West.

"It brings us as close to Chicago by mail as we are to New York."

MUST DEVELOP AIRPORT.

For these reasons, he continued, the Boston Chamber of Commerce believed strongly that aviation should be encouraged and developed in every possible way.

The Boston airport, he asserted, "one of the finest locations for commerce of any in the world," is laboring under the handicaps of too small an area and the lack of the various aids to navigation.

Specific recommendations which the Chamber committee approves, he told the commission, are:

Setting aside of the remaining area at Jeffries Point in addition to that already provided for use as an aircraft landing field.

Establishment of direct responsibility for the control of the field and for the eventual supervision of civilian flying.

An assurance of reasonably long lease to encourage and promote local development of commercial air lines and aerial activities.

MAY COST $300,000.

Prompt and substantial enlargement of the present port through grading and surfacing of the remaining filled area, together with the eventual removal of the hangars and accessory shops to the Maverick street side of the field.

Establishment at an early date of night lighting facilities.

Designation of some definite agency charged with responsibility for developing the airport either by the State, Boston, or the metropolitan district.

The grading and surfacing of the entire filled area at the Boston Airport, the committee estimated, with the removal of the five hangars and shops to the Maverick street side of the field, would cost in the neighborhood of from $250,000 to $300,000.

SPECIAL ROAD PATROL FOR FOOTBALL GAMES

Unusually heavy traffic is expected on all the principal motor roads leading to Boston on Saturday because of the Harvard-Dartmouth and other football games. In order to assist motorists and prevent accidents a picked squad of State troopers will patrol all the main roads, especially those leading from New Hampshire.

Lieutenant Williams, in charge of the traffic squad, will have his men on duty from early Friday evening until Sunday morning.

The troopers will be on duty each week end until after the Harvard-Yale game. On the eve of that contest the motorcycle officers will begin a special patrol of the roads leading from Connecticut and New York at noon on Friday and this patrol will be maintained through relief squads until the Monday morning following the game.

TELLS HOW TO KEEP BUSINESS HEALTHY

If you want a healthy condition in your business, you should watch the profit per sale rather than the sum total of sales, Professor Harry R. Tosdal told the Sales Managers' Club of the Boston Chamber of Commerce today.

He pointed out some business costs more to get than the profit which may be secured. Sometimes this is due to an endeavor to cover too much territory, and at others is due to too large an expenditure of personal salesmanship and advertising.

U. S. MAKES NEW LONDON A QUARANTINE PORT

New London, Ct., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Official declaration of this city as a quarantine station port by the United States Immigration Service was made known today with the appointment of Dr. Joseph M. Caney as quarantine officer.

Heretofore State health officials have inspected foreign ships and their crews and passengers on arrival here.

Significance was attached to the news because of the proposed establishment of fast express steamship service between here and European ports.

INTERNATIONAL CRISIS IN RADIO CONFERENCE

Washington, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The allocation of exclusive wave lengths to the various radio services, the most vital question facing the International Radio Conference now sitting here, is approaching a showdown.

The main problem, which may wreck any attempt to reach a final agreement, arises from the fact that European countries in general desire to reserve to broadcasting a far wider band of wave lengths than the American delegation is inclined to grant.

Any increase in broadcasting allocations would work to the detriment of ship communications which is of the utmost importance to the American wireless industry owing to the ever growing value of wireless use on shipboard. Europeans would not hesitate to sacrifice all available channels to broadcasting.

WOMAN SOVIET MINISTER WON'T RETURN TO MEXICO

Moscow, Russia, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Madame Alexandra Kollantay, Soviet Minister to Mexico, the first woman to hold that post, will not return to Mexico, it was authoritatively learned today.

Madame Kollantay, who is now on a vacation in Russia, will resume her former post as Soviet representative at Oslo, Norway.

NEW HAVEN PAYS U. S. IN FULL, $48,494,240

Washington, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.).—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad by the payment of $48,494,240 has fully liquidated its indebtedness to the government the treasury announced today. Outstanding advances made by the government to railroads approximate $153,000,000.

Low mileage, low price. Many unusual opportunities are offered in the Used Car Columns of the Boston American Classified Ads. Classification 150.

PLAN DRY GAME FOR ARMY-YALE

New Haven, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Federal prohibition authorities are determined that the Army-Yale football game, here tomorrow, will be dry.

Dry agents on duty at New Haven will be supplemented by others from throughout the state said Deputy Prohibition Administrator Frank T. Putney, of Hartford.

"We are going to co-operate with city and state officials at New Haven in an attempt to maintain order and curb the activities of some of the more ambitious night clubs and restaurant owners," Putney said.

Hours before game time, authorities said agents will start a tour of the city's clubs and restaurants and will keep up their surveillance until Sunday.

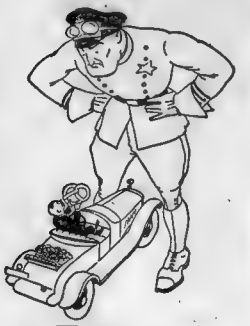
Bite yourself an Alphabet



Here's a tip for pretzeleers on wheels

Suppose you go fast, and the naughty policeman stops you and gives you a lot of jaw. Can you jaw back? You can, but don't. While the speed cop uses his jaws to talk, you use yours to pretzelize. Bite out these five letters for him:

SORRY

Chances are he will let you eat your word and depart in peace.

Of course you'll want O-So-Gud Pretzels baked by Uneeda Bakers. This is the kind that all good pretzeleers use for eating and for pretzeleering.

They're brown. They're crisp. They're crunchy. They're salty. Easy to digest. Good for grand children and grand parents.

Eat them with soup, with salad, with cheese, with sweet desserts. Serve them with cool iced drinks. Eat them between meals. Eat them without any excuse at all—except that you want to.

Ask for pretzels made by Uneeda Bakers. You will like them better.

PRETZELS

Who do you suppose invented the twisty, pretzel knot that is the O-So-Gud? And Why?

A man out in Oklahoma reports that he can eat more Slim Jims because they have no holes in them. Takes up less room, he says.

'ADVISERS' FOR SCHOOLS HIT BY PILOT

Appointment of eight advisers for girls in the Boston public high schools was sharply criticised today in an editorial in the Pilot.

"Any further encroachment on parental rights by government national, State or municipal, should not be tolerated," reads the editorial in part.

"These advisers, if we are rightly informed, will give advice on dress and manners to the girls, act as counsel in all matters relating to discipline and act as chaperones for afternoon dances and other social activities.

"What rights, it may be asked, will be left to parents? What voice will parents have when advisers take full charge of their children's dress, their manners, their discipline and their social activities?

"The home is the place for advice on such intimate matters, and the parents are the ones to give it. At present the functions of the advisers are circumscribed, but who knows the ultimate outcome?

"The school has been given too many of the prerogatives of the home. Parents may fail to exercise these prerogatives. But they belong to them, nevertheless. They, not teachers, have been entrusted by God with the responsibility of the moral training of their children. Any interference with these God-given rights will work harm.

"We are not willing to admit that parents should hand over to teachers what is one of their most important duties and entrust the entire moral conduct of their girls to outside agencies."

Hop Off for Detroit

Buffalo, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—Edward F. Stokes and William S. Brock, world fliers, hopped off early today for Detroit after spending the night here when forced down by adverse weather.

OIL TRIAL JURY EXCLUDED FOR SINCLAIR FIGHT

Washington, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—An attempt by the government to introduce parts of the testimony Harry F. Sinclair gave the Senate oil investigating committee in 1925 brought the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy trial to an abrupt halt today, so far as the jury was concerned.

After a forenoon devoted to testimony as to whether the Wyoming Naval Oil was in danger of drainage before Albert B. Fall, as Secretary of the Interior, leased it to Sinclair, the offering of the Sinclair testimony brought on an argument over admissibility, and Justice Siddons excused the jury until Monday.

The case was interrupted continually today by disputes over the propriety of evidence, particularly that given by R. P. Hord, a geologist represented as having told Fall there was no imminent danger of drainage.

Hord's testimony, and that of [illegible] expert oil counsel, all to show what information was before Fall at the time. The defense attacked Heald's report and developed that he went to Teapot Dome to check up another report and remained there only an hour.

Attempts to exclude the report failed on insistence by Roberts that it was not offered as evidence of facts concerning drainage.

SLAYER APPEALS FOR HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Sentenced to life imprisonment for a murder to which, he alleges, another has confessed, Catalino Figueroa, inmate of the San Juan penitentiary, today appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court here for a writ of habeas corpus as the first step in establishing his innocence of the crime.

Review of the case by the Supreme Court of Porto Rico on the grounds of newly discovered evidence has been refused and as this Federal circuit has jurisdiction over the Island, Figueroa invoked its intervention to save him. According to the record of the case Figueroa was convicted of the murder of Cefarino Colon on a Porto Rican sugar plantation in February, 1923.

REVERE 'RUTH ELDER CLUB' PLANS HEROINE WELCOME

Organization of a "Ruth Elder Club"—believed to be the first of its kind—was started today in Revere by Miss Gertrude F. Loeffler of No. 15 Harrington street, water rocketeer for that city for many years.

"I think it is shameful that some folks are criticising this courageous girl of being 'foolhardy,' when as a mater of fact she is an inspiration to American girls and did just what should be expected from a vivacious girl interested in aviation and able to pilot a plane," said Miss Loeffler. "We will meet Miss Elder on her arrival in New York and do our best to have her visit the club in Revere."

READING IS SILENT ON SALARY CONTROVERSY

Attorney General Arthur K. Reading, storm centre of the salary increase controversy at the State House, was at his desk today, but refused to comment on the demand from the Governor and Council that he expedite his written opinion on the legality of the new salary classifications. The opinion was given the council late yesterday by Assistant Attorney General F. Delano Putnam.

Will Meet and Weep! It's a Great Life if You Don't Marry

New York, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.)—The Alimony Payers' Protective Society, composed of men who believe they got a raw deal from both the courts and the lad with the bow and arrows, will hold its first public meeting Monday night.

John A. Gastelger, an authority on alimony, says the club has a membership of 1,100.

Gastelger is eligible to the alimony team, having had $6 alimony suits directed against him by his former wife.

R. K. Bob, another professional who'll be there, says "It's a great life—if you don't marry!"

BORAH AND NYE AT ODDS OVER FARM RELIEF

Washington, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Opposition flared up today within the ranks of the newly organized group of Western Republican senators to the proposal to eliminate the controversial equalization fee provision of the vetoed McNary-Haugen farm bill from a substitute under consideration.

Senator Nye of North Dakota served notice that he was not ready to abandon the equalization fee.

Senator Borah of Idaho has opposed it and it had been hoped the Western senators might find a substitute acceptable to him. Nye insisted today such a provision had not been found.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa has been working on a plan that would substitute direct appropriations by the government as a measure of raising funds to handle surplus crops in place of the equalization fee, but Nye does not favor that as its present form.

A meeting called for today to work out the differences of theirs was postponed until Monday.

The stand taken by Nye, which he said was shared by some other members of the group, indicates that some time would be required in working out the farm problem.

Christmas Trees Begin to Fall in Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 21 (I.N.S.).—Christmas tree harvesters went into the woods today throughout Vermont.

Hundreds of carloads of Christmas trees will be shipped out of the Green Mountain State this season.

Labor cost for gathering of the evergreen is approximately $50,000.

REMUS TO USE DODGE RECORDS IN DEFENSE

and liberty are in these government records.

There is considerable speculation as to how valuable these records will be to the Remus defence.

From Assistant Attorney-General O. K. Lohring who has charge of the Remus Dodge report it was learned last the documents had nothing more than memoranda of investigators who had listened to tips and information leading incidentally, to the point that the departments will be of little value to Remus.

However, Attorney Charles E. Stetson is of a different mind, and will examine all valuable records

CULT SLAYER WON LOVE OF WOMAN BY HIS HYPNOTIC POWER

"This De Klupfell pays much attention to me, but—— ugh! What a

Thus wrote the beautiful Countess Marie Amelie Marcelle Vernet-Lord to her husband, Horace Winfred Lord, the millionaire philanthropist who died in the Back Bay family's new estate after she was found stabbed through the heart in her chateau at Noe, France.

The man named in her letter, Dr. "Hardy" De Klupfell, ex-Russian nobleman, is under arrest charged with the murder of the young countess.

In his Beacon Hill apartment today, Lord reiterated his faith in the fidelity of his wife, and told of a scene in his chateau in 1925 when De Klupfell was ordered to leave the Vernet home forever.

ATTENTION'S UNWELCOME.

"For two years De Klupfell had been forcing his unwelcome attentions upon my wife," said Lord.

Her family had befriended him, he was made welcome at our home during the illness of Madame Vernet.

"He had a peculiar influence over women, even though he lacked physical charm. Some women of our acquaintance were madly in love with him, but my wife was strong enough to resist his advances. He was a Svengali in his love making.

"He had been exiled in 1920 to great Madame Vernet for a cancerous growth, her husband Count Vernet, one of the foremost physicians in France having been weakened in body through an unsuccessful case of his dying wife.

"When fear of saving the life of Madame Vernet had vanished, De Klupfell accompanied my wife and other members of the family to an older Vernet chateau about twenty kilometres from Plan de Grasse.

"That was in October, 1923. Weeks passed and no word came from her. I could stand the suspense no longer and I went to see her there.

UPBRAIDS WIFE.

"I was furious when I entered the chateau. I upbraided my wife for not writing to me.

I accused her of being over friendly with De Klupfell, and I charged that I would have him in my home no longer.

"I discovered later that she had written me every day during her absence, but the letters had not been forwarded, due to an error in instructions I had given the maid.

"That night De Klupfell left the house without saying a word to me and I have not seen him since. I learned later that he again visited my home after I had returned to this country, but always in company with his wife.

"His visits ceased entirely for a while, but last August he returned as a member of the Lumiere colony. It was then that my wife wrote to me about his coming. I had forbidden her to mention his name after the unhappy incident at the chateau, so she wrote only briefly of him. I quote her letter:

BECOMES THEOSOPHIST.

"'We have a member in our branch at Courmettes named Klupfell. He looks intelligent and works as a contre-maitre (assistant director). Did I tell you that I became a member of the theosophical society, although I do not approve all those stories of Krishna Murti? But I did it before the creation of a new branch here at Courmettes, as they needed eight members to form.

"'So we have our branch, "Lumiere Orient." I do not like it either, so we are going to write to headquarters at Adyar, India, for explanations. My dear Wilfred, how can theosophists limit themselves in such a way?

"This Klupfell pays so much attention to me, that what a man!"

Lord continued:

"When I received this letter I had a feeling that tragedy would follow in the wake of Klupfell's reappearance. I recalled the series of misfortunes that began soon after he had started his weird moonlight seance on the plain within sight of the balcony upstairs of my wife's chamber.

"They were held between August and October, the months of the 'harvest moon.' The overwhelming sweet odor from the jasmine plantation would envelop the gathering on the lawn. The moon shines brightly during this period and there was rarely any rain to interrupt the seances.

"He had hypnotic powers, I am sure, for I have seen him working his seductive charm on women. I have seen the moonlight seances in company with my wife. Poor, unfortunate Isadora Duncan came often and sat with us.

"And so I feared that my dear Marcelle, the strong-willed though I knew her to be, might some day be swept along in the mad abandon of these seances promoted by Klupfell.

"She wrote to me of them. Midnight communion in which the sisters partook of salt and acted dances before the 'Eye of Aztec.' The ghastly sight of a painted corpse dressed as Hadrian sitting on the lawn, while the medium in a chanting tone chanted her messages from the spirit world. And of course it all I knew that De Klupfell's evil influence was working.

"I wrote to her begging her to leave the cult. She laughed at my fears, ridiculed my growing belief that she was being led on by members of the free love cult. She wrote of meeting them, and how one had spurned their principles and humiliated them when they were in her presence.'

HELD ON CHECK CHARGE AFTER 3 WEEKS' SEARCH

Frank M. Lottridge, sought by the police for three weeks as a bad check worker, was picked up on the street today by Traffic Officer Thomas P. Walsh of the Back Bay division.

Lottridge was booked for attempted larceny of $100 by means of a check, and will be arraigned in Municipal Court. He gave a fictitious address. He is said to have "patronized" every department store in the city.

Fooled the Bandits

Newark, N. J., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—An automobile load of bandits waylaid payroll messengers of the Essex Foundry Company today and made away with a dummy satchel instead of the bag containing the payroll of $14,000.

Countess Wrote Her Undying Love to Her Husband

"I don't believe we shall ever cease being lovers, that our love will die, and I'm happy you feel as I do. Love is not small 'I' but 'I,' in our love. I am waiting for you to come to me again, not only in body, but in heart and soul"—Countess Vernet-Lord in a letter to her husband.

SAYS LOVE CULT FATE STALKED COUNTESS

relived a message in an unknown tongue through Madame Armel, and then fled from the place in hysterics without even a good-by to the Countess or any of the household. She alone understood and interpreted that message.

Then came the suicide of Isadora Duncan's Russian husband, Serge Essenin, then Isadora's tragic death, and finally Marcelle's own violent end.

All of these had at some time aspired to the "higher culture" disseminated by the "Crow's Nest" on the hill above the Countess' home.

WARNS HUSBAND

"She must have a funeral of pale and flowers, those things which she loved most in life," her husband said, "not especially religious music, but 'The Pilgrim's Chorus' from Tannhauser, or Bach's Death Fugue which she played on her $20,000 violin at Isadora's funeral."

De Klupfell, believing that his hypnotic power could overcome any scruple that the strong-minded Countess still entertained against him, taunted her husband in a letter last month with the warning, "Watch out, little boy; if you have abandoned your wife, there are others waiting to pick her up."

"I replied to that by ignoring it," Lord said, "I had proven her love for me a thousand times. I trusted Marcelle and understand better than anyone else possibly can that our union is a spiritual one. I shall see and recognize her in time. It is natural that I should grieve, because the flesh has gone forever from my sight, the pretty face, the loving voice, but death is only the refining process that separates the gold from the dross.

Lord declared the Russian was loved by many women though he was far from being handsome.

TAKES SUNBATHS

De Klupfell had lain day after day in the sunny fields of jasmine, clad only in a thin bathing suit, taking "sunoaths" to foster his occult power until the young husband had forbidden him the house. Still the countess excused him, smoothed her spouse's rage when he returned home unexpectedly to find him in the house, and permitted him to become one of the sight members with herself who formed the "Lumiere" Theosophical lodge on the "Crow's Nest," on August 9.

The exotic love life of Countess Vernet-Lord, plaything of Fate from the hour that she met De Klupfell, her slayer, until the premonition of death prompted her to pen a poem defying it, will be contained in the Boston Evening American tomorrow.

"This De Klupfell pays much attention to me, but—— ugh! What a" Thus wrote the beautiful Countess

SLAIN COUNTESS BARES LOVE FOR HUSBAND IN "MIMI" LETTERS

In contradiction of rumors to the effect that Countess Vernet had separated from her American husband the latter, H. Wilfred Lord of Boston, showed the following letter written to him by his wife three months ago:

"I got your letter with the Ile sant clippings, etc. I am sorry you feel so sad. You are so much like our dear papa sometimes; you make yourself unhappy thinking about the dark sides of life.

"You seem to have a strange idea of what I have become. I can not help but laugh when your picture of me is as 'an old maid, being led by the nose' or 'a member of the free love colony.' It is so ridiculous and far from the truth. If you could only have a glimpse of my real inherself, things would be so much clearer and better; only you are blinded through fear and doubt.

FEELS HAPPY.

"Of course, there are many freaks among theosophists, etc, but those freaks would exist without theosophy, and I wonder if you never saw any in any church. Then it is not theosophy or New Thought which is to blame, but the people who do not understand the purity of the doctrine, or are too egotistic to put into practice in their daily life this doctrine.

"You know perfectly well that it is the same with Christianity. How often have we not criticized the pastors who preach war or other things totally outside of the Christ spirit? And what is New Thought but plain Christianity made practical? What a man's faith is, doesn't matter, but what he must practice is LOVE and forgiveness.

"I have also suffered very much through people I loved the most. I can truthfully say that my mother and you are the only ones who did not make me suffer. But I have come to the conclusion that folks don't want to make me suffer or wrong me.

They were just ignorant of my innerself and my needs. That's all.

"There is nobody on earth to whom I wish to ask to pay for what I have suffered, and I am at peace with everybody and everything. I can truthfully say, too, that I am truly happy and quiet, since I have learned to forget my own sufferings and to try my best to help those who do not understand me.

People here are very, very kind to me and I enjoy life, although I am far from having what I should like, our home, and a definite path to trod, and I am very sorry about my father's and your unhappiness.

I would like to help you both and have you near me, and do my best to make life bright for you both, but it does not seem to be within my power. So I let it go, till conditions give me a chance to do more. I have passed the stage of worrying about myself, or even, others.

"I see many members of the 'V. P. A.' (Via Plus Abundante) (Life More Abundant), or the La Croix Colony. I see the Goldbergs' colony, too. All of these groups seem to be wrong. I understand them when they say we must have a life nearer to nature, more hygienic and simple. But I do not approve of this going back 1,200 years before Christ's time, to sleep on straw like animals, all huddled together, and forget everything about art and science.

TELLS OF LOVE CULT.

"As for free love: Well, I am rather puzzled with the question. I do not believe these people are worse than any others, and, at least, they would not have any idea of killing their loved ones because of jealousy, and when you read of the crimes committed daily, in the name of love, you cannot help but wonder who is right, me, the one who believes in free love, or the other who considers his or her mate his slave.

"But anyhow, I think the ideal LOVE is 'one,' and I have not the least desire to become the wife of a dozen men. You know that, I hope.

"What I would like is this: Somewhere a nice country home, cosy and full of pretty things, and take some poor children as my own and teach them to love simply all what is beautiful and good, teach them to be happy and to make others happy, and they would get up singing, and go to bed with music; they would learn to dance and run joyfully among flowers and trees, they would study music, art and learn history, not through battles and wars, but through all the ideal achievements of mankind.

"It is all I am wishing for.

SENDS KISSES.

"I hope you will get your school. Papa wrote me he had answered in the most affirmative way, about your capacities, etc.

"So let me hear from you again, and try to raise yourself above all sadness and sorrow. It doesn't pay and you have better things to do than brood over negative conditions which life hands to us.

"Best wishes and kisses. Thy devoted Mimi."

"P. S.—The lavender is beginning. Will send you some this week. You can make some sachets and put them in your linen, also Mama Lord's. It smells so good."

This addition to the above letter was written the following day:

"Sunday, July 4th.—Four years ago, we were in Coblenz, Germany, having the American celebration and Tante Adele left this world. In Clos Marcelle. What changes have been brought in our lives! What mysterious force beckons us on!

"But not in our lives, my dear, not in my heart, though. I am just as anxious to do something worth while with you as I was that day, four years ago. I can not believe that we have been treading the same path, to be ever really and definitely separated. You can say what you will or what others will, let them talk, and I thank you for your frankness, being lovers, that our love will die, and I'm happy you feel as I do. Love is not small "i" but big "L" in our love. I am waiting for you to come to me again, not only in body, but in heart and soul, if not on this plane . . well . . . . you understand.

"One day, I am sure, you will understand me and see things in the real way, more true, more real, and not feel I am drifting like a rudderless boat. I don't want you to think so. I forbid you to do so. I know, I swear our love can never end through sons and axes, and will continue, even as I believe it has, since time immemorial.

"I am trying hard to get settled somewhere. Is it not disgusting to have all our nice things in the storehouse and that we could make a nice, pretty home, instead of my going here and you going there.

"The Goldberg Colony will make some music today in the field, and everybody is invited! I am not going but will look from the window, balcony, for so many people tire me.

"I pity the women and children in this colony. They are so unhappy and if you could see their sad faces that terrible look; it is heart breaking. Dr. G. is very rough and despotic and he thinks he is always right.

"Must leave you, dear Putzo. Remember that as sharp as stones can be, if the brook keeps on flowing, brightly over them, they will soon get as round and polished as Easter eggs. Many kisses.

"Ever thy devoted,
"Mimi."

REFRIGERATION ENABLES YOU TO Enjoy Spring-laid Eggs at this season of the year

What a pleasure to contemplate—plenty of delicious "spring" eggs at reasonable prices when "new-laids" are scarce—when there are not nearly enough of them to go around!

THINK of what a sacrifice it would be at this time of year not to have eggs—nature's most perfect food!

To most people, that's exactly what would happen were it not for the great service rendered by scientific refrigeration.

During this season of the year, the hens are not very active. They did their "bit" in the spring by laying eggs in abundance. Now is their vacation time.

Consequently, the supply of new-laid eggs is entirely inadequate to meet family needs. But for refrigeration, there would be an egg famine, with prices so high that few people could afford to pay them.

Refrigeration prevents egg shortage

Spring eggs are the most perfect eggs of the year. The hens are at their best and the eggs they lay are big and full-flavored.

Many more eggs are produced then than can possibly be consumed at that time. Half of the entire year's supply is laid in the spring months.

From that spring-time abundance, thousands of cases of choice eggs are selected for Cold Storage. They are shipped to the warehouses in swift refrigerator trains.

On arrival they go into a uniform temperature of 30½ degrees. This prevents deterioration—keeps them at their original fine quality until the time comes for their use.

Delicious for the table

Serve them in any way you wish — boiled, poached, fried, scrambled or shirred.

They are good eggs—sure to please. The finest eggs of the year—spring-laid. Try a dozen today. Then your egg problems will be solved.

No longer will you need to wonder about the quality of the eggs you buy. You'll know in advance that they will always be good eggs. And that they will save you money.

CASEY LOSES FIGHT TO GET NAME ON BALLOT

Judge Sanderson in the Supreme Court today dismissed a petition of James B. Casey of Cambridge for a writ of mandamus to compel the registrars of voters of that city to place his name upon the ballot as a candidate for assessor to be voted for at the next election.

Casey's petition was filed with the registrars of voters just before 5 o'clock on Oct. 18, when the time for filing such petitions expired, and the registrars of voters refused to accept the petition because there was not sufficient time to verify the names of qualified voters appearing upon Casey's petition.

PILGRIMAGE FOR WAR MOTHERS ENDORSED

LEADERS PRAISE PLAN TO VISIT HERO GRAVES

By WIN BROOKS

"There is on earth no worthier grave
To hide the bodies of the brave . . ."

JOYCE KILMER, penning the immortal lines of "Rouge Bouquet," could not have known that the graves of American dead across the seas might never be hallowed by the presence of more than 20,000 mothers in this country whose sons still lie where they fell in the flaming crucible that was a war, now nearly ten years ended.

Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller

Joyce Kilmer died. Had he lived he would have written a poem, perhaps "as lovely as a tree," with the Gold Star mothers who must stay at home and vision, only in their dreams, the cross-marked graves of their sons, as its subject.

He would have raised his voice with all New England yesterday in acclamation of the suggestion of the Boston Evening American to have the Gold Star mothers make a pilgrimage next Summer to the graves of their hero sons in England, Belgium and France.

The proposal of the Hearst papers that the expenses of such a pilgrimage be borne by the Federal government through a special appropriation to be sought of Congress during the coming session met with instantaneous and hearty response. Expressions of approval and of hearty support were voiced on all sides.

Mrs. Curtis Guild

Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, wife of the Governor, commenting upon the plan, had this to say:

"I find myself in hearty accord with those who still remember with high regard the mothers who gave their country's need, and I think the feeling that prompts this thought of paying tribute to the mothers is wholly commendable."

Immediate endorsement of the plan was voiced by Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of one of Massachusetts' most famous Governors. Mrs. Guild said:

"It seems to me that the idea of the Hearst papers to have Congress send the Gold Star mothers to France is an excellent and sympathetic one.

"When one thinks of the comfort one takes here in visiting the graves of our beloved dead, I think this will appeal to everybody."

Commander John W. Reth, Department of Massachusetts, the American Legion, has just returned from a tour of Europe with his wife during which, in addition to attending the Legion convention in Paris, they visited the graveyards in France where lie the bodies of most of America's dead who still rest overseas. In a letter to the Editor, Commander Reth writes:

"I note the editorial in your issue of October 20, 1927, headed, 'The American Congress Owes It to Our Service Dead to Send United States Gold Star Mothers to France.'

"This is a noble idea, worthy of earnest, practical consideration."

John W. Reth

Captain William J. Blake, who as regional director of the Veterans' Bureau has almost daily contact with mothers whose sons fell "in Flanders fields," has this to say:

"I am heartily in accord with the movement started by the Hearst papers to send Gold Star mothers of the United States to France at the expense of the government, under the supervision of the War Department and directed by the Red Cross.

"It is a splendid plan. I am quite sure that all the members of our Congressional delegation from Massachusetts, who, I am in a position to know, are ever willing in their consideration of the welfare of mothers of men who were killed, will further the plan in every way possible.

"The mothers who gave their sons —who are proud of their sacrifice— deserve this consideration at least. Congress should act upon the plan as early as possible and rush it through at the first opportunity. If I can aid in its furtherance, do not hesitate to call upon me."

Capt. William J. Blake

CUPID SINGS WITH THEM!

Singer Weds Accused Suitor

ALL IS HARMONY AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Sovereign, wed today in Newton. The bride was formerly Miss Thelma L. Bishop, choir singer. The wedding followed a romance temporarily interrupted when Miss Bishop had Sovereign arrested. The wedding day found them happy and smiling, the past all forgotten.

MARRY IN 'LOVE BABY' ROMANCE

Couple Find New Happiness at Altar Following Arrest of Music Student

Thelma Louise Bishop, Newton church worker, and Oliver Sovereign, choir singer and musical student, who was arrested on her complaint that he was the father of her child, were married today.

The ceremony was hurriedly performed in Newton City Hall, without witnesses by City Clerk Frank M. Crain, after a waiver of the twenty days had been obtained from Judge Lloyd Allen of the Local District court.

Both Sovereign and his bride appeared happy when interviewed after the ceremony, the new Mrs. Sovereign remarking smilingly: "Our troubles are now over."

Asked for a statement, the woman, who did the talking for the pair, said:

"We intend to settle down, but haven't decided on where we will live. Just say we were married and are happy."

BOTH FIND HAPPINESS.

When Sovereign was asked if he intended to continues his musical studies, as he has aspirations toward the Metropolitan Opera Company, he replied: "Yes." He added that probably he would not go to the New England Conservatory of Music.

The pair, arm in arm, and smiling happily, then departed in the direction of Newton Centre, where Mrs. Sovereign makes her home.

At the time of his arrest in New York, where he was singing in the Brick Presbyterian Church on Fifth avenue, eking out his income by washing dishes in a restaurant, Sovereign declared that Miss Bishop had trapped him and that he was not her child's father.

Extradited to Massachusetts, after he had been indicted by the Middlesex County Grand Jury, he was arraigned in the Superior Court at East Cambridge, and the case was continued with the understanding that a marriage would take place.

ANNOUNCED MARRIAGE.

A year ago, shortly before the birth of the baby, Miss Bishop announced through a Newton newspaper that she and Sovereign had been married the previous Spring in Albany, N. Y.

At that time she was director of religious education at Trinity Episcopal Church, Newton, from which position Miss Bishop resigned a week before she became a mother. The baby was placed out to board, and Miss Bishop resumed her work in Boston.

In the meantime Sovereign, who had met the Newton girl while taking a special course at the school of religious education of Boston University, had gone to New York, where he was arrested.

Law Balks His Little Love for Long Bride

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Mounting a chair and stretching himself to the limit of his three feet six inches, a midget today applied for a license to take a bride, an even two feet taller than himself, only to have his ambitions thwarted by legal technicalities.

The little man—H. A. Knowles of North Truro, Mass.—gravely told the incredulous clerk that he was thirty-four years old and that he wished to marry Ruth Hoyt, thirty-four, of Provincetown, Mass., whom he had known since childhood.

It was all right until Miss Hoyt, who is five feet six inches tall and [illegible] and she had obtained a divorce from [illegible] her and in choosing a pocket rather than by personal service of papers. As she was a resident of New York at the time, the divorce was not recognized.

Provincetown, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Residents of this town on the tip of Cape Cod and the adjoining village of North Truro could not recall today ever having heard of H. A. Knowles, midget who tried to get a marriage license in New York today, giving his address as North Truro. Neither did they seem of the opinion that his prospective bride, who said she was Ruth Hoyt of Provincetown, Mass., old inhabitants all, they never knew of any midget living in this town.

SOIL OF FRANCE FOR MOTHER OF WAR VICTIM

A heaping basketful of the soil of France will be presented tomorrow to Mrs. Mary E. Akins, Raynham Gold Star mother, by Major-General Edward L. Logan at the South Boston Court Building.

On this soil the feet of American soldiers trod in one of their greatest advances, and beneath it lay for many weeks the body of Private Harry J. Akins, 102nd Machine Gun Battalion, Yankee Division.

The basket of soil is the response of understanding soldier hearts to the appeal Mrs. Akins made in a letter to the Boston Evening American.

It was brought from overseas by General Logan, Captain Jared Nichols and James P. Gleason, juvenile probation officer of the South Boston court, all members of the Michael J. Perkins Post American Legion.

Three American flags from the American Military Cemetery at Thiaucourt will be given Mrs. Akins with the soil.

This Gold Star mother's son lies now in a grave in Mt. Auburn cemetery but long ago it became one of her cherished hopes to get a little soil from France, where he died in action, to sprinkle on his grave here and on her little garden in Raynham.

Her appealing letter brought offers of help from veterans' organizations. They learned that what she longed for most was some soil from the grave her son's body had once occupied in France—soil also that his comrades and he had fought on.

While she was waiting for the Legioners to go to France, she was cheered by a small amount of soil from the grave, obtained by Captain William J. Blake, chief at the U. S. Veterans' Bureau in Boston.

This bit of soil was obtained by mail in time for her to place it on her garden and plant a "memory flower."

RIDDLES AUTO AND CAPTURES 3 YOUTHS

A motor chase in Springfield, during which a motorcycle officer was crowded off the road and fell into a ditch, from where, bruised and bleeding, he emptied his revolver at the fleeing car, was capped three hours later today by the capture of three Woburn youths.

They were George Mullen, nineteen, of John street, Woburn; Daniel Porter, eighteen of Crane's lane and Bernard Curtin, nineteen, of Main street.

The capture and the seizing of their bullet-riddled machine completed a spree of Motorcycle Officer Edward M. Gallagher, when the officer shot holes in the speeding auto, he was said.

It proved to be the car of Hyman Lefor of Cambridge street, Roxbury, stolen last night in Beverly.

Off on Gallagher was riding in Boston street when he was ordered to see a big sedan race and whistle past him and twinkle its red tail light far ahead in a few seconds time.

He chased the car more than a mile, even alongside and ordered the driver, alleged to have been Curtin, to stop.

Instead, the driver is declared to have swerved against the officer's machine, crowding him off the road. The other auto was overtaken in a small woods two miles distant, with a bullet in one tire and another hole through the back.

Gallagher three hours later came upon the three Woburn youths

WORK CALLS ON GOV. FULLER

A member of President Coolidge's Cabinet, Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, today made a five-minute call on Governor Fuller at the State House. On his way out of the building, Secretary Work, when asked, declared that the visit had no political significance.

"This is the off year for politics," he said, "I happened to be in town and thought it only courteous that I call on your chief executive."

While the Secretary was closeted with the Governor, former Congressman Samuel Winslow of Worcester dropped in. He, too, denied that his visit was other than "social." He said the two visits at practically the same time had no relationship.

CHAPTER 34

THE delicate shadows which presage the sunset in Boston were creeping into a Back Bay studio, softening the outlines of the furniture, dulling the cords of antique silver and gold which threaded rare bits of Chinese brocade. But her eyes, he saw, were wide and misty—in that clear blue something shimmered as if tropical sky eyes should have been radiant, full of [illegible]. But Abelard thought they were full of tears, and something within him ached intolerably.

Mocking mirrors

MOCKING shapes of silvered glass that tell the truth. . . . What a tragedy that some women fade so soon! What a shame! Just a few short years ago, beauty and health were theirs to spare. Now—their mirrors mock them! Wan, thin cheeks, lifeless eyes and taunting, haggard smiles betray the price of neglect. . . . What a pity!

It is terrible—the toll that constipation takes in health and happiness. It thieves beauty. It wrecks vitality. It drags the strongest body down to despair. It is the cause of much suffering and disease. And all the while it could be so easily relieved! So surely prevented!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely, permanently. To prevent this vicious affliction ever gaining a hold.

Why ALL-BRAN is superior to "part-bran"

A large part of ALL-BRAN is "bulk." This bulk absorbs a great deal of moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. At the same time it gently distends the intestines — purifying, cleansing, eliminating poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom a sufficient amount to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran—and always brings 100% results. Results no part-bran product can equal!

What could be fairer?

Eat ALL-BRAN regularly—according to directions on the package. If it does not relieve any case of constipation safely and permanently, we will refund your money. This is the strongest guarantee the Kellogg Company knows how to make. They could never afford to make it if ALL-BRAN did not produce 100% results!

No more need for pills

How different from habit-forming pills and laxative drugs! Which generally become useless unless the dose is constantly increased—and sometimes injure the system! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious, healthful cereal. Serve it with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey for an extra treat. Let it soak for a few moments in the milk or cream to bring out all its delicious flavor. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Make it into the many appetizing recipes on every package. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Try eating ALL-BRAN regularly and see how much better you feel! But be sure to get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't accept a part-bran substitute. At best, it can be but partially effective—often it accomplishes nothing. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Comes ready to eat. Served at all hotels and restaurants and cafeterias. On dining-cars. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

PEASANTS ASK CAROL TO COME BACK AND RULE

Paris, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—L'Oeuvre, French radical newspaper, today says that delegates of the National Peasant Party of Rumania have negotiated with former Crown Prince Carol for his return to Rumania and his assumption of the throne.

L'Oeuvre, in an article signed by Henry Barbe, foreign editor of the paper, says that the Peasant Party delegates laid down one condition—that Carol break with the Titian-haired Magda Lupescu with whom he eloped nearly two years ago, deserting his wife, Princess Helen. Carol accepted this condition, it was said.

Barbe says that Carol will enter his kingdom at the beginning of next year.

Barbe also relates that Queen Marie wishes to come to Paris to see Carol but Premier Brattiano, fearing that she might betray him, exclaimed bluntly: "If you continue to pester me with your family business I will proclaim a republic."

HASTY PUDDING CLUB SCORES CRIMSON

Initiation antics of new members of the Harvard Hasty Pudding Club, which the Harvard Crimson scored as "vulgar" and objectionable to women, will not be repeated, club officers promised the university authorities today.

But toward the Crimson the club directed a bitter attack, asserting that the editorial went beyond the bounds of reason.

"Two boys got a bit rough and did what they should not have done before we could stop them; they misunderstood their instructions and went beyond their limits," read a statement issued by club officers.

"It is not fair to have the whole organization condemned as in the Crimson's editorial. The Crimson has always made a lot of noise about nothing and we've had trouble with them before, though it has always been ironed out.

The promise to the university authorities is understood to have been voluntary, as no threat of action was made by college officials, as far as can be learned.

HUSBAND HELD IN SLAYING OF WIFE AND GIRL

New York, Oct. 21 (I.N.S.).—After being grilled by detectives for eight hours, John Hansen, 60, was placed under arrest today in connection with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Anna Hansen, forty, and her adopted daughter, Alice Mackt, nineteen.

They were found beaten to death in their home in Brooklyn after Hansen had walked into a police station and told detectives: "I'm in trouble again."

He said he had returned home and found the women "hung on the floor bleeding."

Their heads were battered in. Police believe the murderer used a baseball bat or a piece of lead pipe twelve hours before Hansen led detectives to the house. He told them they said, that he had been drinking all day and had quarrelled with the women and the girl, but denied the killing.

The "trouble" he has been in before, police said, was arrest for carrying a gun and a charge of breaking the arm of his adopted daughter.

A bartender at a nearby speak easy said Hansen told him:

"I had a party at the house last night and just now I found my wife and daughter dead. Give me a drink."

WOMAN FUGITIVE SOUGHT IN HARTFORD

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 21.—The search for Mrs. Lillian Penfield, who escaped from the New Haven County Jail, where she was serving a year for bigamy, was carried to Hartford, in the belief that she may have sought shelter in the home of her husband, whose love she cast off when she married Charles E. Hoyt in this city in January.

caused by bootleggers of course, the chief assistant in the killing was a government too feeble to enforce prohibition, too cowardly to admit that it cannot enforce it.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of Columbia College, calls prohibition responsible for crime, immorality and drunkenness among children, and says Republicans and Democrats must take a definite stand on prohibition in 1928.

Senator Borah, old-fashioned American, thinks prohibition ought to be enforced, and demands that Republicans and Democrats take a definite stand on prohibition in 1928.

But Republican and Democratic politicians believe in being elected, first, last and all the time, if possible. And they WILL NOT take a definite stand on prohibition in 1928.

What is America, as regards its people, what is it destined to be?

Indians were here first, Columbus came, then the Pilgrim Fathers determined to worship God as they pleased and to make everybody else worship Him as they pleased. They would not recognize today's populations. The city of Chicago contains 450,000 Germans, 400,000 Poles, 300,000 Jews, 300,000 Irish, 200,000 Italians, 200,000 Bohemians and Czecho-Slovaks, 125,000 Swedes, 50,000 Norwegians and 50,000 Greeks. Not exactly what you would call "pure Nordic."

What type, what civilization will come out of that mixture?

MELROSE FATHER SEEKS MISSING DAUGHTER

Melrose police were asked by Frank Meredith, of No. 56 Green street, that city, to help him locate his daughter Mary, 15, who has been missing from home since early in the week. Both the girl's father and authorities stated they fear she is under the influence by a group of young men with whom she was known to have been associating.

When last seen she was wearing tan shoes, flesh colored stockings, white waist, with velvet collar and grayish skirt. She is short and quite stout for her age, weighing about 115 pounds. The girl has a full face and bobbed mid tan colored hair. She only had 85 cents at the time of leaving her house.

LOS ANGELES MAY LAND ON LINDY FIELD, OTTAWA

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The field on which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived for his visit to Ottawa has been suggested as the landing gate for the American dirigible Los Angeles when it crosses the international boundary for the first time, October 29.

Lindbergh Field, three miles from Ottawa and several other landing sites were suggested by Canadian air officials to have the giant ship come down as near as possible to the Canadian capital. One condition of the flight reports said, is that a suitable landing field be provided.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

BALKITE 'AB' POWER UNIT

By C. WILLIAM RADOS

A sock in socket powers. The great powers of the world decide when a war will start or stop. With our Balkite "AB" power unit there is no stop or start. Unlike Boston's traffic system once the music starts it keeps going. And it goes with a pair of socks until bedtime.

When we first received the Balkite unit it looked like a big lunch box. That's how we happened to open it. We couldn't find any battery, relay or other usual accessory, although, of course, they filled it with nuts and bolts, and magnets so as not to disappoint anyone. The unit replaces both A and B batteries and supplies everything from the lamp socket. Edison doesn't know yet that A and B batteries are hidden in every lamp socket. The thing is entirely noiseless. It has nothing to wear out, or even wear inside the house.

Railroad engineers and M. I. T. professors will readily understand when we say it works on the principle of electrolytic rectification. These words were first uttered by the famous Greek Admiral, Dasha best stewe.

The principle on which the Balkite units work is the same as operates most of the railroad signals in the country; 2,000,000 units are in use. We think we got number 1,845,038. Who got the next one is not known.

Two models are available; one which will give 135 volts and the other which will give 180 jolts with interest. The unit, as hinted before, connects directly to Weymouth through the nearest lamp socket. By connecting to Weymouth in this way the set is always ready to get New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, and other suburbs. Just think how nice it is to have a boxed dynamo that you can call by its first name.

Atwater Kent announces big cut in prices.

KENT CUTS ALL PRICES

To all Atwater Kent distributors an important announcement concerning the Atwater Kent sharing profits with the public was made at a national meeting of Atwater Kent distributors held yesterday, at the opening of the nineteen twenty-eight radio sales season. A Atwater Kent announced that because of tremendous production facilities which he had put into operation the public would receive benefit of a 20 per cent average reduction on all his radio products beginning yesterday. "It is only right" said Mr. Kent, "that purchasers should share in the results of up-to-date manufacturing methods in everything. This is a tendency of the times. In our fifteen acre factory our production engineers and experts since the inception of radio have been working out manufacturing economies which smaller factories perhaps could not accomplish.

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADOS

TONIGHT a tribute to Tom Edison is broadcast to celebrate the invention of the electric light bill. Edison is practically the inventor, genius, and engineer of modern electricity. Without him we would have no lamb to put out at night. Fuses would not blow, and installments on vacuum cleaners would be unknown.

Utility presidents will broadcast through forty-one stations all over the country. In grateful remembrance incensed electricians will make a party of it. They will have dizzy heads tomorrow morning.

The trend today is toward elimination in radio. Aerials are being eliminated. Department stores announce that all will be eliminated when paid up. So it is with great relief that we announce that Atwater Kent has decided to eliminate 20 per cent. of the price of its sets.

Although we could not hear every broadcast last night, among those we did hear we rated the Smith Bros. as highest. The two singers harmonized and plugged their way through a program that was delightful. So we set them down as the smoothest, gentlest and best last night. We mention two as a couple of singers the night before, this broadcast had nothing jazzy or jumpy in it. Melancholic is predominantly rhythmic. We dislike the continual bump "bang, bang." S. R. (A. R. or W. A.?) we liked for this lack.

The Eskimos bid for popularity was based on the playing of old songs. A married man would not dare to present his wife with a ten year-old car. Yet they worked their way through a reminiscent hour. Only don't do it again, Harry, because even Goldy and Dusty are now cowed with dismay.

It is much harder to remain permanently popular than it is to become popular. The Eskimos are popular. But some day they will go like President Coolidge and John L. We wish them luck.

Short selections from American poets was the feature of Coward Comfort hour last night. Doubtless in New York a collecting thirty minutes' work is a good hour. But how they can call from 7:30 to 8:00 p. m. an hour is slightly misunderstandable.

If they pay for sixty minutes the broadcast could not be much better than what we heard. We didn't know poets were so entertaining even when translated into music. The moods portrayed the spirit and atmosphere of each poem.

Our outside stations were not steady. KDKA, WMAQ and WOT were fairly powerful at times. WMCA of New York was the best outsider, maybe because a mayor had "happened to drop into the studio." KDKA was very clear with excellent transmission characteristics. WJZ interfered badly at times with WEEI, at times fading in so strongly as to make a terrible hash of both programs. We hope when Radio Commissary makes another kilocycle separation the kilocycles will be wider and broader.

Static gets a separate paragraph. It was worse on the lower end of the dial. Wednesday night it was a vice versa. However, as soon as it gets cold static will depart for Florida and Palm Beach.

In contrast to Wednesday night another unimportant mention is made. WTAG was very weak, WTIC and WEAF all were afflicted with squeals, and code interference was bad at times.

We used our Kellogg, No. 810, loop listening.

Don't confuse Balkite "AB" with so-called radio socket powers

It contains no battery in any form

The new Balkite "AB" replaces both "A" and "B" batteries and supplies radio current from the light socket. Balkite "AB" is not to be confused with so-called radio socket powers. It contains no battery in any form, no relay, nor any of the other usual accessories. It never requires charging. It puts an end forever to run-down radio power. It delivers even, uniform current to the set at all times.

This new complete unit operates only during reception. It is the most economical of all sources of radio power. There is no trickle charging when it is not in use. It requires no other attention than the addition of water 3 or 4 times a year. It is unaffected by standing idle.

Balkite "AB" is entirely noiseless. It has nothing to wear out or replace. It is a permanent piece of equipment, based on the famous Balkite principle of electrolytic rectification. A principle so reliable that it has become standard on the signal systems of most of the railroads of the country.

The same principle on which 2,000,000 Balkite units now in use are based.

Balkite "AB" makes any receiver an electric set, a true instrument of pleasure. It means the swift passing of radio batteries and their attendant cares. It will be welcomed by anyone who has to tend a radio set. Particularly a boon to women. Two models, to serve any set. 135 volts, $64.50. 180 volts, $74.50.

Your dealer will recommend the one you need.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

An announcement by A. Atwater Kent

IT IS ONLY RIGHT that purchasers should share in the results of up-to-date manufacturing methods. This is the tendency of the times.

In our 15½ acre factory our production engineers and other experts, since the inception of radio, have been working out manufacturing economies, possible only with operations on a large scale.

These advancements have enabled us not only to maintain but constantly to improve the quality of Atwater Kent Radio.

Therefore the public will receive the benefits of a 20 per cent average reduction on all our radio products, beginning immediately.

The new prices are in keeping with the long established Atwater Kent policy of sharing with the public the results of economies as fast as they are put into practical operation.

The 1928 prices, effective now

ARMY IS FAVORED TO WIN

Preponderance of Veteran Material Gives It Edge Over Yale Tomorrow

New York, Oct. 21.—Yale and the Army will get into action in the Yale Bowl Saturday in one of the significant games of the year.

Partley because of the change in the rules that comes closer to controling the shift, it is unlikely that the soldiers will win by any such score as that of a year ago, if they win at all.

Because of the preponderance of veteran material the army should be a slight favorite, but with little likelihood of the score in either case, going very high.

The tire of guy of the two elevens will be very much the same. Both use the huddle, and the modified shift—the Notre Dame type of shift by the Cadets having been to a large extent abandoned.

The Yale eleven, led by Caldwell, undoubtedly is coming along, and coming along fast. It has the memory of last year's crushing defeat to wipe out

ACCUSE SCRIBE OF STEALING SIGNALS

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Because of violations of training rules or cribbing at examinations football players were under a cloud in two Eastern cities today. In a third city football writers demanded an investigation of charges that one of their number had divulged plays of one college team to an opponent.

Syracuse newspapermen have been stirred by a letter to the athletic governing board of Syracuse University by the coach of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va., saying he had received information regarding Syracuse plays in advance of the game on Oct. 1.

The letter said the information was divulged by a newspaperman through a third party. Nine representatives of the Journal, Herald and Post-Standard of Syracuse have addressed an open communication to Chancellor C. W. Flint requesting a complete investigation and the name of the third party.

The newspapermen declare they have canvassed their ranks and have been unable to find anyone having acted improperly.

The newspapermen declare they are not concerned at not being allowed to witness the practice arcades of Syracuse, but desire to be cleared of any charges as suggested in the letter from the coach of William and Mary.

Because of a break in training rules, Captain Tom Sawyer and three first string men, Christie, Elliot and Degg of the American University squad at Washington have been suspended.

The American game with William and Mary tomorrow has been cancelled owing to lack of players.

At Vineland, N. J., five members of the high school football team have been suspended for "snaring" examination papers alleged to have been stolen by three students two weeks ago. The students are barred from athletics until February 1.

Coach Tasker Admits Having Syracuse Plays

Richmond, Va., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—J. Wilder Tasker, coach of the William and Mary football eleven, said today that he had sent a letter to Syracuse authorities concerning advance information of Syracuse plays received prior to the game between the two teams, but that his team did not take advantage of it. Tasker declined to discuss the incident further.

"Leo P. Flynn is all right. However I only employed him for two fights. He's got a lot of business of his own to look after without handling me."

Johnson Arrested On Old Charge

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight boxing champion, was arrested at ... Manchester tonight and lodged in the Columbia City jail on a three-year-old charge of liquor law violation.

Three years ago Johnson was arrested at Columbia City while en route from Detroit to his home in Chicago for speeding. He was fined and upon further investigation four quarts of liquor were said to have been found in his car. Johnson, it is claimed, put up three diamonds which he valued at $1,000 and which Frank Nott of Columbia City took as security for a $1,000 bond. Johnson left the State and the diamonds were appraised at about $300.

Johnson's arrest tonight followed an exhibition match at North Manchester. He is being held in the local jail without bond.

Tunney Fight Movies in Springfield

Springfield, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Motion pictures of the Tunney-Dempsey fight were put on exhibition in a local theatre today without police interference. Chief of Police W. J. Quilty instructed his subordinates to take whatever action was called for, but W. J. James, clerk of district court, was unable to find any law prohibiting the exhibition.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Chief of Police Bill today received a letter from the city law department giving an opinion that there is no reason for the police interference in the showing of pictures of the Tunney-Dempsey fight, which are scheduled to be shown at a theatre here next week. As a result of this letter Chief Bill says the police will not undertake to prevent the exhibition of any fight film.

FITTONS PUT ON MYSTERY TEAM

Coach "Polly" Harris of the Fitton football team has a surprise for the visiting St. Augustine A. A. eleven and followers of the Fitton team Sunday when they meet the South Boston team at World War Memorial Park, East Boston. What Coach Harris calls his mystery backfield will be shown for the first time. Not an old face will be seen for the veterans have failed to come up to expectations, making a change necessary.

All four ball carriers have starred in college circles. All have been tried and will make their first bid for fame on the semi-pro field against the strong St. Augustin team. The line, which has proven strong all season, will remain in tact. The team has been working out each day for this encounter and those that follow, and judging from the recent performances by the Fox Insular eleven, the Fittons will be given a real test.

MACK'S BIG HUSKIES STEP OUT

Argonne 40-Round Tourney Tonight Should Furnish Plenty of Zip and Pep

Tonight's the night Promoter Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. turns loose his huskies, seven pairs of them, middleweights and heavyweights, all smashing, banking, punching chaps in the club's forty-rounder tourney to be held in the Mechanics Building ring.

Coach Jess Hawley and the Dartmouth football squad, here to battle Harvard tomorrow in the Stadium, will occupy ringside seats.

The four-rounders will have the lead-off—five pairs of them—to be followed by the double ten rounds wind up, the first of which will bring together Sid Barbarian of Detroit and Mickey Sears of East Boston.

Barbarian is as tough for his pounds as about any man in the game today. He can both give and take and enjoys it—he has battled in rings all over the country and is far wiser than many may opine.

The other 10 rounder, the finals of the card, will see Ernie Schaaf, now of this city, mingling with "Yale O'Kun" of New York, the Jewish heavyweight champion, in a return bout. They clashed recently at Newark, N. J., in a 10-rounder, which was declared a draw.

Both are hot for a meeting here with Johnny Risko of Cleveland, a bout which the club has promised the winner. They have fought here before as amateurs and "pros" and the Hub knows them to be two hard punching, game, clean warriors.

Tom Murphy, Somerville, and Artie Ryan, Kerry Village, heavies, will battle in the opening four-rounder, to be followed by Jon Hartnett, Halifax, and Cannonball Cote, now of this city, middleweights.

The third four will bring out Steve McGraw, Cambridge, and Eddie Johnson, Quincy, heavies, and then Danny Sears, brother of Mickey Sears, and Spike Hennessey, the Waltham warhorse, middies, will get to work. The final four will see Eddie Callahan, formerly "Cyclone DeRosiers," in the ring with Moon Mullins, South Boston, heavies.

Report Back on Stadium Project Next Tuesday

By JOE CASHMAN

Every day in every way the demand for a municipal stadium grows greater and greater.

Prominent persons in every walk of life admit the need of a field for the athletes of the Hub high schools, and endorse the Boston Evening American's campaign to have one built.

Principals, teachers, coaches, physical directors and students in the schools have been enthusiastic in their support of the drive from the start. The man in the street, having been informed of the great necessity for such a structure, is now a member of the army of municipal stadium boosters.

If there are any who disagree with the majority's verdict that Hub schoolboy athletes need an up-to-date field, we have failed to discover them after a prolonged and thorough search.

Some favor the Fenway site and others the Strandway location; some believe that a small field should be erected and others insist that a big stadium be built; some would merely consider the players and forget all about the spectators and others refuse to give any opinion for publication, but ALL agree that Hub schoolboys need an athletic field.

And that is ALL that the Boston Evening American contends. It makes no difference where the field is built, how many it seats or how much it costs as long as the schoolboys are provided with a centrally-located field on which to hold athletic practice and contests.

Already there is an effort being made to have the city spend $250,000 for a municipal stadium. Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury has introduced an order in the City Council asking for this sum to erect an athletic field.

The order was referred to the committee on finance which will report on it next Tuesday. Councillor Dowd is confident the order will pass.

Park Commissioner Long has promised to convert the Fenway Playground into a stadium for $100,000.

A municipal stadium wouldn't put the city in debt, neither would it add to the already heavy burden of the taxpayers. Regardless of the amount of money expended for the work, the field would pay for itself within a few years.

This is not a guess. Municipal stadiums in other New England communities and in big cities all over the country have not only added to general prosperity but have also proven financial assets.

If big athletic plants in other cities prove self-supporting, there is no reason to believe that a stadium in Boston, always a leading sporting center, would prove otherwise.

As a matter of fact, though, the question of finance shouldn't enter into the argument at all when the needs of the school children are at stake.

The public has always felt this way in the past, and as far as we can learn, this is the consensus of opinion in the present instance.

We merely explain the financial aspects of the situation to prove to those who do not believe in spending any money for athletics, that a municipal stadium would eventually become a money-maker for the city.

Much has been said about this deplorable condition but nothing done to remedy it. How much longer must the children suffer this handicap?

The answer is with the public. If the citizens demand that a stadium be built, those in authority will obey. If no clamor for the field reaches the ears of the powers-that-be, nothing will be done about it.

The Boston Evening American wants to see a municipal stadium erected as soon as possible. It feels that the majority of citizens favor the proposed structure and urges everybody to boost the plan unceasingly.

Only in this way will the campaign be crowned with success.

TUFTS LEAVES TODAY FOR VERMONT

Tufts Varsity held its last practice on the eve of their departure for Vermont, on the Brown and Blue Golf Links.

The Jumbo squad leaves today for Burlington for its duel on Saturday with the University of Vermont. It will be the hardest as well as the most important game of the season for the Hilltoppers.

Should they come off victors in Saturday's clash, the outlook is extremely hopeful for a clean slate for the entire season.

The Jumbo starting lineup will not include Capt. "Mel" Bowker and "Potts" Kennedy. The doughty Tufts end has not seen action since the opening game with Lowell Textile because of a spintered ankle bone.

He has been in uniform this week and is making the trip, however, and if the Brown and Blue gets the breaks tomorrow, he will probably replace Goldman who has been filling the wing berth.

Five New Terriers to Face Springfield Team

A long signal drill, to acquaint all the new men that are expected to represent the Terriers in their game with Springfield at the Y. M. C. A. College Field tomorrow with the signals, will be the program for this afternoon.

Due to the many injuries that Boston University gridders have sustained this year, the coaches have been unable to develop an offense.

With three new men in the line and two in the backfield it has been necessary to have long signal drills all week.

The coaches have not made any definite statement as to the starting team but the team that lined up for the last scrimmage probably will start.

At present the starting eleven seems to be, Jackie Currie and Al Spitzer, ends; George Cimbis and Newt Congdon will attempt to fill the tackle jobs satisfactorily while the two regular men watch the game swathed with bandages, Bill French and John Buckwater will be at guards and Bill Barrett, shifted full back, will start at center.

The backfield is still slightly in doubt. It is not certain whether Captain O'Brien will play. If he does Herbet will be a halfback. If O'Brien cannot play the backs will be Herbet, quarterback; Nelson and Thurman, halfbacks, and Francis Wales, fullback.

"Yes, Willard Mack is right, Luckies are best," says Paul Berlenbach

Popular pugilist tells his manager, Benedict Sterns, that Lucky Strikes are the finest cigarettes.

Willard Mack,
Noted Author, Producer and Actor, writes:

"We people of the theatre are, as a rule, extremists. This is the reflex action from overwrought nerves. When a man smokes forty cigarettes a day, as I do, he must be sure of his brand. I smoke Lucky Strikes because I have found they are soothing to the nerves and at the same time they cause no throat irritation. My voice is always in perfect condition and I am never troubled by any coughing which might be annoying to me in my work as an actor."

Willard Mack

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Harvard Is Favored Over Dartmouth Two Injuries to Three

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

COLLEGE TEAMS AT WAR STRENGTH TOMORROW

By BILL GRIMES

Regardless of the casualties sent out from all camps, with few exceptions, every team will enter tomorrow's battles at war strength. So persistent have been the announcements of injuries one might well wonder why some of the games have not been cancelled.

There has been an epidemic of moans sweeping back and forth across the country all week. There is not a triple threat left in the game. Apparently, every coach has been trying to outmoan his rival.

Dartmouth has lost Dick Black, Bob Harris and Mike Sherman. Harvard will be without Tim Clark, its outstanding lineman and Dave Guarnaccia; Caldwell and Out of Yale not expected to last long against the Army; Tufts and Mass. Aggies [illegible] about ruined by injuries, and so on down the entire line.

Some teams have suffered from injuries, but despite this, there are any number of wonderful conflicts to be played on the morrow, and the best grade of football will be exhibited.

Dartmouth will attempt to continue its comeback against Harvard. Until the Green was practically laughed out of the Yale game last Fall, Dartmouth had not lost a game in two years. The same mental condition which put the skids under Brown this season, ruined Dartmouth last year

JUMP IS EVERYTHING.

Although Dartmouth will enter the Harvard game without the advantage of at least one hard test, Coach Hanley has a far better working combination at Hanover than was lead by Captain "Hooker" Horton.

In the Stadium tomorrow much will depend on which team is able to get the jump. If Dartmouth smacks down the Crimson as quickly as they floored Temple last week, it will be a sad afternoon for Harvard. The reverse is also true. The turning point in the Dartmouth-Harvard game may come within a minute after the first kickoff, so get over early or chance missing the kick of the game.

While Harvard and Dartmouth are battling in the Stadium, Yale will be exerting every ounce of its power to turn back the Army, two to 0 to defeat heaped upon the Elis last year, which by the way was the first Army victory in the Bowl, should place considerable fight in Tad Jones' boys.

The victory over Brown was the finest tonic Yale could possibly have received. Since the Brown game there has been a noticeable improvement in the confidence and fight of the wearers of the blue.

CORNELL LF AGAINST IT.

Against Princeton, Coach Gil Dobie will be forced to open up. The slam, silent Cornell coach does not relish showing his hand but Princeton is loaded for bear and Cornell will be obliged to expose its entire bag of tricks

Amherst will be a heavy favorite in the first of the "Little Three" championship game against Wesleyan. Coach White has a fine team at Amherst and so equally strong are the first and second outfits, that there is a possibility of using these teams as two units

Coach Doug Lawson will send his Williams aggregation against Charlie Crowley's Columbia boys.

The props were knocked from under the Light and Dark Blue wearers from Morningside Heights by Colgate and it will be a fighting out fit that takes on the Purple

Having fallen before Pennsylvania and Yale, Brown now comes to its Lehonan Valley game. Coach Tad McLaughry shook up his team in a most drastic manner this week and expects a better working combination to develop

The Big Three State series opens tomorrow, with Maine at Bates and Bowdoin entertaining Colby. The University of Maine is represented by another strong and well balanced outfit. The wearers of the pale blue have won the title five times in the past six years.

Although the heaviest team in the State dates has not been good as well as was expected. The garnet and white squad is green. Many of the boys are playing their first year of varsity football.

However, Carl Wiggin's charges may find themselves against Maine. The University of Maine will be without the services of Jack Minutti, the veteran guard, who is confined in the hospital with the grippe.

Down at Brunswick, Bowdoin and Colby will wage battle. Mel Morrill and "Ginger" Fraser have performed wonders with the black and white squad. Bowdoin was ruined by graduation, forcing the coaches to rebuild a new team.

After tieing Mass. Aggies and being swamped by Yale, Bowdoin has been coming along smoothly and Colby may run into an unpleasant surprise.

EAGLES IN HARD GAME.

There will be plenty of action among the Catholic colleges, Boston College is stacked up against his third tough customer of the season in West Virginia Wesleyan at Braves Field, while Worcester and Washington, D. C. will be the scenes of the other three encounters.

Jack McAuliffe, the former Dartmouth captain and line coach, has his Catholic University boys up in the Heart of the Commonwealth for a battle with Holy Cross.

The illustrious Major Frank W Cavanaugh will be in Washington with the Fordham players, who have come to since the job that Dick Meehan's New York University did on the Maroon, for an encasement with George Washington University.

The Fordham-George Washington game will be played tomorrow morning, which will allow the New Yorkers an opportunity to watch Georgetown in action against West Virginia in the afternoon.

Dick Hanley, the former Haskell Indians' coach, has a real team at Evanston, and Northwestern has the call over Bob Zuppke's galloping Illinois will enter the Northwestern game, its first conference contest of the season, minus many of its stars, while Coach Hanley will be able to throw his entire strength into the conflict.

Jimmie Phelan has his Purdue outfit at Madison for Wisconsin, which team was defeated by Michigan, last week, although he out gained the Ann Arbor eleven

Four Harvard Changes for Dartmouth Battle

Harvard's starting lineup against Dartmouth in the Stadium tomorrow will have four changes in contrast to the eleven which stirred the football world by defeating Holy Cross a week ago.

Horween announced his lineup today, but in his customary manner added that some changes might be made before game time.

This last provision needs bearing, especially in these halcyon days at Harvard when reports are of Johnson nature. Horween announced his lineup last week with Howie Burns at quarterback and then revised the dope by starting Art French at the helm of his eleven.

Today the bewildering Harvard coach again announced that Howie Burns will start his first game, He has replaced French, Dartmouth a remiss a year ago

The three other shifts have Bill Lord displacing Jimmy Poor at end, Red Barrett spelling for the supposed-to-be injured Tim Clark, at tackle, and Everett Donachy grabbing the No. 3 backfield berth from the cripples Dave Guarnaccia and Guy Holbrook.

Arthur French will be reserved, according to Horween. French and Guarnaccia will probably enter the fray at the same time. This pair crave the passing game, and Harvard expects both to feature in the overhead game tomorrow.

French is physically perfect, but Horween intends saving him as his trump threat. Guarnaccia is still lame, but is not crippled enough to brave those long passes which have featured his part in the Harvard offense for the past two seasons.

DONAGHY DOES KICKING.

The team's kicking will be handed over to Everett Donaghy, who has been the third choice for the fullback position this week. He has received his chance after Guarnaccia and Holbrook had been put on the shelf via injuries. Guarnaccia will act as spare tomorrow.

There is still some doubt as to one place in this lineup. The doubtful berth is at left end, where Bill Lord has the call, according to Horween's lineup. It appears, however, that Sam Burns has been receiving plenty of attention at that berth and is a more likely starter than Lord. The doctor's list still is long and varied, but according to the medicos every member of the squad is in shape for the Big Green test with the exception of Tim Clark, big tackle, who is still on the losing end of a battle with the physicians in regard to his chance of playing.

GREEN 10-8 CHOICE.

The footing is going to be soft for the game. Last night the field laborers put down the nine thousand dollar canvas covering before the rain, but the dampness seems to have sifted through. Large pools of water covered the huge tarpaulin and it seems possible that rival teams will run out on the field with mud cleats.

Horween has ordered a light offensive workout for this afternoon. Coach Dunn has inserted many Western plays into the Crimson bag of tricks and there are many plays which will shock those educated in the cut-and-dried Harvard conservative code.

With the possibility of Black and Harris not competing against the Crimson, there has been a change in betting odds. Dartmouth still is the favorite of 10 to 8 and some 10 to 9 quotations. There is plenty of Big Green money but the Hanoverites still are hedging for even money.

The Crimson team will hold its practice session in the Stadium this afternoon. Dartmouth will not arrive in the Hub until late this afternoon and has declined Harvard's offer to use the stage of tomorrow's colorful battle

Tickets are still at a premium. Scalpers are as thick as professors around Harvard square and the last hope for the unfortunate is that the Dartmouth rooters might have some extra duckets. There will be plenty of glad-handers meeting the Dartmouth trains tonight.

A pair of choice seats on the Big Green side went for $30 this morning while two seats in the wooden stands called for fifteen smackers seven dollars over their price value.

Single tickets range from the well-known ten-spot to twice that amount according to their location.

REISELT, BILLIARD CHAMP, IN LEAD

DARTMOUTH ELEVEN IN HUB

town football enthusiasts who will attend the conflict began to put in an appearance

Traveling in every known mode of conveyance, from every section of the country, this army swept into town. Among the early arrivals were Mrs. Jesse B Hawley and the twins The Hawley family came in from Chicago and although it was the first trip for the year-old Misses Hawley, they weathered the long tiresome trip in fine style.

The first Dartmouth supporters were members of the freshman and varsity cross-country teams, which meet Crimson this afternoon and the varsity golf team, which will match strokes with Harvard at the Belmont Spring Country Club today. Harvey Cohn the big cross country men under his wing, while Tommie Keane is in charge of the golfers

The out-of-town Dartmouth men

OLD-FASHIONED SEND-OFF.

At 11 o'clock Hanover was a bustling, bustling town. The varsity held its final workout before the Harvard game this morning on the freshman field. After the practice the players were ordered to be at the Common at noon, and when they arrived found the entire college gathered to give them a real old-fashioned Dartmouth send-off Forming a line which stretched from the campus to the end of Main street, the undergraduates gave the Indians of the north a send-off such as is befitting a team of the calibre of Captain Bob McPhail's outfit.

George McCarthy is the only survival of the Dartmouth rooters. The little town up in the hills of New Hampshire is a deserted village. The student body is racing towards the Harvard Stadium and the "Townies" are making their annual pilgrimage to Boston.

The intercollegiate dances at the Hotel Statler and Copley-Plaza will be the big "take ins" this evening During the intermission at both dances the famous Dartmouth Barbary Coast Band, the most famous college orchestra in America, will be heard

The intercollegiate dance is sponsored by Dartmouth and Harvard men and among the ushers will be Manager William A. Magee of Harvard and Monty Wells, captain of the Dartmouth track team and one of the country's greatest hurdlers.

DINNERS TONIGHT.

The annual Dartmouth class dinners are scheduled for this evening. Every available room at the University Club has been allotted to Dartmouth for the reunions. Some of the classes were forced to hold their get-to-gethers at various Greater Boston country clubs, such as 1907, which will gather at the Weston Golf Club.

Regardless of the fact that it was definitely announced early in the week that there were no more tickets available, the demand is still heavy. The few dozen which have reached the hands of the speculators, regardless of their location, are bringing as high as $40 a pair, while the better tickets are valued at from $75 to $100. However, the demand greatly exceeds the supply.

Dartmouth still rules as the favorite. The price ranges from 100 to 80 to 100 to 75.

When the betting fraternity finds that Dick Black, Bob Harris and Mike Sherman are definitely out of the game the Crimson supporters will take a boost and it will not be surprising if the betting is even by noon tomorrow.

There is absolutely no grounds for making the Green a favorite. The team has worked more slowly than at this season, but it has received no real test. Harvard has the advantage of entering the Dartmouth game with two tough games, Purdue and Holy Cross, under its belt. Dartmouth has played four mediocre eleven.

Everything is in readiness for the classic of the season and there is every reason to believe that tomorrow's Dartmouth-Harvard game will be one of the greatest contests of the year.

Senorita Alvarez a Poor Golfer

Epsom, Eng., Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Senorita Elia d' Alvarez, the Spanish tennis star, isn't so good at golf

Making her debut in competitive golf in the annual golf tournament for tennis stars playing for the Lord Desbrough Cup, she took a ten on the first hole and more than double figures at several others. At the turn she puckered up her brow and tore up her card, after announcing:

"I can play better than this even when I am off my game completely."

Mrs. A. D. Stocks, playing from a 32 handicap, won the cup.

COURSE IS HEAVY FOR PRO GOLF TOURNAMENT

Washington, Oct. 21 (I. N. S.).—A brilliant field of professional golfers started today in the Middle Atlantic Open Championship over the Indian Spring course here. Leo Diegel is defending his title, but he has strenuous opposition from such golfers as Tommy Armour, the open champion; Bobby Cruickshank, Johnny Farrell, Willie McFarlane, Freddy McLeod, Joe Turnesa and a host of others. The course was heavy today from recent rains.

Record for Stadium Thrills Expected
Green Should Win

Chance for Harvard Too Many Penalties
New Rules Delay

By NICK FLATLEY

RECORD CROWD TO WATCH DARTMOUTH WAR

THE biggest crowd that ever watched a Harvard team play in Cambridge will march to the Stadium tomorrow for the Crimson-Dartmouth collision. A few hundred extra seats have been squeezed into the great horseshoe, and every one will be filled, each occupant expecting ninety-nine different kinds of thrills.

There never has been a wilder demand for tickets, for a Yale game or anything else. Fate has conspired to make this a very large football occasion. Word comes down from the hills of Hanover that the Green has another of "those" teams, an outfit that should sweep gloriously up to the crest.

Nick Flatley

Most of the heroes of the Indian team are former schoolboys from these parts. Harvard, by its remarkable revolution against Holy Cross a week ago, has built a whole world of new spirit. The old grads are smiling this Fall as they haven't since the days when Haughton steered their conquering teams.

One victory doesn't make a football team any more than one swallow makes a rummy, but that Holy Cross affair shattered the deepest bank of gloom that the passing years ever had dropped over Cambridge. The reaction from deep sorrow and despair is naturally unconfined and unreasoning hope and joy.

Dartmouth, on the dope, should be a heavy favorite to win this ball game. But you can't make a Harvard enthusiast see it that way. The Crimson, if it can bring in the same fighting spirit that was evident a week ago will have a chance, no matter what the Hawleys produce.

An especially good chance, if the field doesn't dry out after the recent rains, and the going is heavy. Dartmouth's great backfield is built around speed, and slow going may provide the break that would mean another of the well known upsets.

EVEN HARVARD FOOTBALL STARS OF YESTERYEAR ARE YELLING ABOUT TICKETS. LOOKS LIKE A NEW AND BIGGER STADIUM SOON.

GAME MUST BE SPEEDED UP ANOTHER YEAR

FROM all corners of the land, the wail against football penalties is growing louder and more piteous. Too many whistles are tooting and horns blowing, here, there and everywhere. It is not the fault of the officials, but they will have to take the blame.

The new twists in the rules have, theoretically, opened up the game and made it more spectacular, but as a matter of fact, there are so many penalties, and points open to discussion that the pastime has been hit quite a jolt.

The Holy Cross game last week dragged intermittently. Speed, skill and continuous drive are the essentials of football. And all go right in the ashcan, when time is called after every other play, while officials waltz around with the ball, and try to figure whether they're right or wrong.

A good football team cannot prove its worth, unless it has the chance to shoot play after play, and thereby dynamite the heart and spirit of the opposition. The fans were inclined to growl at the Stadium, where growling is seldom heard these last few years.

In other more outspoken spots, there was actual booing and catcalling. The officials and the athletes can't do a thing. Nor can the rule makers this Fall. But they should see the light and simplify the code during the Winter.

Then the game can be opened up and speeded, perhaps. It never will be under the present foggy system.

THE BOYS WHO CAN BUY WHISTLES FOR TWO BITS NATURALLY OBJECT TO PAYING FOUR AND FIVE BUCKS JUST TO LISTEN TO THEM.

The optimist is the bird who thinks his girl will not be disappointed because he couldn't get those tickets.

THIS COUNTRY OF GREAT MEDICAL MIRACLES

IF the boys in other countries read the sporting pages from these United States, America will quickly be awarded the medical and surgical championship of the globe. One reads appalling stories of the young men who have been torn limb from limb and otherwise rent asunder in Saturday football games.

Flowers just begin to come in from friends for the obsequies, when lo and behold, the dead are brought to life, and, in the short space of five or six days, prance merrily around football fields with their very healthy fellows.

America is the country of miracles, and none more startling than the remarkable cures effected each week in each college football squad. If, to be sure, you would care to believe the reports that trickle from the sacred conferences of coaches.

Rickard May Have to Swear Jack Fought Gene

—Tex Rickard may have to swear in court of law that the Dempsey-Tunney fight actually took place last month.

In spite of the long court tangle, the record gate, the broadcast hook-up and all the newspapers had to say about it, the law must be shown, if the defence in a case before the courts here doesn't change its stand.

The Canadian Educational Films is seeking to restrain J. J. Horan and the Nicholls Theatres from showing pictures of the fight.

The defence legally denied the heavyweight tussle took place, and if it insists upon its attitude in the face of the presiding judge's comment that there are some things obvious enough to be admitted, the film company said it would require an adjournment to obtain Rickard's evidence.

Eagles to Use Murphy at End Against Bobcats

Although the Boston College football team is riddled with injuries, there will be but one new man in the lineup which Coach Daley will start against West Virginia Wesleyan at Braves Field tomorrow.

He is Charley Murphy, who played a good portion of the Geneva game and gave a fine exhibition. Murphy will take Bud Dower's duties at left end. Dower in the meanwhile will be playing Tom Smith's position at fullback.

Smith is absolutely out of tomorrow's game with a broken hand. He banged it in a scrimmage the early part of the week and the injured hook has been in splints since. Dr. Ben Godvin, squad medico, hopes to have Smith's hand repaired in time to allow Smith to face Fordham a week from tomorrow.

This is the upshot of a wild and bewildering week at the Heights. Daley has made more changes during the past six days than a mannequin in a style show.

He has experimented with his team but has obtained no new conclusions. As a result practically the same club that was beaten by Geneva on Columbus Day will try once again to break into the win column by downing the Buckhannon Bobcats.

RECRUITS ON ENDS.

Bill Hafferty will be at right end. Hafferty started his first varsity game against Geneva and made good. Hafferty and Murphy are a couple of recruits, but Daley feels that they will make a good showing and that Wesleyan will have difficulties in skirting the B. C. extremities.

Warren McGuirk and Pete Herman will be at the tackles. Herman has been on the injured list all week with a bruised leg. This will allow Big Peter down somewhat in tomorrow's fracas.

DEFEATS DUE TODAY.

Captain O'Brien and Zeus Wilczewski will take care of the guard position with Earl Clinton at center. Wilczewski has been one of the B. C. rovers during the week. He has been tried out in the backfield and then back again to tackle. Daley's final decision finds him at his old job flanking the pivotman.

B. C.'s backfield ought to provide a few thrills with Weston and Creedon on the verge of a scoring jaunt and Dower smashing the center and tackles of the Wesleyanites. McGowan will call the signals.

Wesleyan will hop off their special train at 4 o'clock and hustle out to the Tepee for a slight workout to get their landlegs after the jaunt from Buckhannon, West Virginia. There are twenty-eight players and Coach Ross in the party.

MARTINEZ AND DI VODI SUB FOR PAULINO BOUT

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Because of an attack of lumbago, Paulino, the Basque woodchopper, will be unable to engage with Phil Scott, English heavyweight, in a bout at Madison Square Garden on November 4. At the request of the State Athletic Commission, Dr. Joseph M. Bier examined Paulino at Summit, N. J., and found the boxer's injuries as reported by his managers.

Ulario Martinez, Spanish welterweight, will trade punches with Andy di Vodi, Brooklyn battler, in a ten-rounder on November 4 as substitute for the Paulino-Scott feature bout.

WOULDN'T PUT THRONE IN DANGER, EVEN FOR WIFE

Springfield, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Ruby Bradley of Holyoke, pretender to the world's flyweight throne, known when not to fight. Testifying in his successful divorce suit he told of encountering a rival for his wife's affections.

"Did you fight him?" asked the judge.

"No, sir," replied Ruby. "He was a heavyweight."

BETTY NUTHALL, TENNIS STAR, GOING INTO FILMS

London, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Betty Nuthall, England's lawn tennis idol, is going into the films. A contract has been signed for her to appear in a typical British romance as a happy sports-loving English girl. Betty, who emerged from her preliminary film tests with flying colors, according to the Evening News, is delighted with the prospect.

SCHOOL NOTES

The Everett High athletic authorities have cancelled the game scheduled with Malden High for Oct. 29. Malden refused to play at Everett and insisted on playing on a neutral field.

The Everett authorities put the matter up to the Everett players. The game was cancelled on the ground that it would not be fair to insist that Medford play at Everett and allow Malden to have the Everett game played on a neutral field.

Brighton High is one of the big mysteries of the season. With Captain Jim Fallon and Joe Ryder in the Lastfield, Brighton has two of the best ball-carriers in Hub school ranks, but Coach Tom Scanlon's charges have yet to score a solitary point this Fall. This is not the fault of the line, either, for only six points have been scored against the team in three games to date.

Newton High will act as host to a tartar tomorrow in Beverly. Hubber Collins' outfit was for years the doormat of the North Shore circuit but such is not the case this season. The team has already beaten its great rival. Peabody much to everybody's surprise and should make matters mighty interesting for the Garden City gang.

Teams Stay Under Stadium Between the Halves

Harvard and Dartmouth will retreat to the new rooms directly in back of their benches during the halves. Harvard has built two huge rooms under the stands and the usual run to the locker building and back will be eliminated.

The rooms are 23 feet square, newly equipped with all modern facilities and a tile floor strewn over with heavy mattresses.

Says Dr. Logan Was Forced to Explain Swim Hoax

London, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The Daily Sketch today quoted Lieutenant Commander L. N. M. Adam, retired naval officer who acted as pilot for Dr. Dorothy Cochrane Logan in her "hoax channel swim" as declaring she confessed to the fake only after he and another member of the party demanded she do so.

TYPIST QUITS CHANNEL SWIM

London, Oct. 21 (A.P.)—Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, who started early today on a Channel swim from Cape Gris-Nez, France, to vindicate her previous swim, gave up her attempt eight miles from Dover, after being in the water eleven hours.

The newspaper got news of Miss Gleitz' failure by wireless from a staff man in an airplane which accompanied the swimmer.

An earlier message said that at noon Miss Gleitze could plainly see the cliffs of south Forsland on the Kentish coast.

She demanded many repetitions of the song "Tipperary" from the jazz band aboard the vessel accompanying her but the members were at times too sick to perform. Newspapermen, however, sang songs and Christmas carols and Miss Gleitze greatly appreciated their efforts.

"YOU may tell the world," declared Mr. Boston when he rumbled into the sporting department today, "that Jack Sharkey will be as good a fighter as ever when he steps to bat with Tom Heeney in their 12-round joy ride at Tex Rickard's Garden of Millions on November 18.

"Since Sharkey started training, I've met a thousand birds who were anxious to know if the Dempsey bout took any steam out of Sharkey.

"'You know,' these fellows have argued, 'nobody whom Dempsey ever beat was any good afterwards. Look at the cases of Mike, Brennan, Carpentier, Firpo and the rest of the guys whom the Manassa Mauler taped over.'

"My answer is that most of the big fellows whom Dempsey is given credit for ruining were on the way out when they run into the rough boy from Manassa.

"Then, buddies, Sharkey didn't receive any frightful body hammering from Dempsey. Sure enough, he was smacked quite often in the midsection, but the real damage was done by low blows. Maybe if Sharkey were 30 years of age such punches would have had a lasting effect on his constitution.

"But Jack's only a youngster as heavyweights go nowadays. He's 24 years of age. A month following the Dempsey fight he was as good as ever.

"I got a look at him in the gym the other day, and I didn't notice him stumbling around on crutches or with any of his arms in slings. Sharkey is very much alive and filled with determination.

"WAY down deep in his heart, Sharkey probably figures he was given a little the worst of it in the Dempsey brawl. He would be a sap if he didn't know that Tex Rickard and everybody else connected with the wealthy Madison Square Garden corporation wanted Dempsey to win the semi-final of the heavyweight elimination mill. And Sharkey isn't any sap.

"The Boston contender is down to brass tacks and business. He intends to eliminate all of the leading contenders and then go in with Dempsey again.

"Another Dempsey-Sharkey bout, according to Rickard, will draw $1,500,000. The big crowd which saw the last jam got a real thrill in the first two rounds, when Sharkey had the old champion out on his feet.

"Then the low punching started. One wise cracker told me after the Dempsey-Sharkey affair that one low punch is as good as three right handers to the chin.

"I ALSO have a hunch that Sharkey has profited by the experience he gained fighting Dempsey. He is highly intelligent, and impresses with each bout.

"Heeney is a pretty good scrapper, as he proved in his matches with Paulino and Maloney, but he'll find quite a few boxing gloves flying in his direction on November 18.

"I understand Sharkey's end of the purse will run close to $60,000. Which will be more money than Jack has received for a nine skirmish other than the record purse he picked up for the Dempsey go."

LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

Fantastic tales of imaginary wonders have been woven about Edison's name. An Edison "myth" which persisted for years, was the "Edison star," supposed to be a powerful electric light sent up every night over the Orange Mountains near his home. This star did appear, but it was the real evening star.

Another Edison "myth" concerned an imaginary device made up of an arrangement of mirrors, which would gather the rays of the sun and concentrate them on the snow. Instantly the snow would be melted and flow off. This "invention" was supposed to be used by railroads to prevent snow blockades.

One of the most amusing of the Edison "myths" must have been imagined by a clever humorist. This was called the "stratified shirt." It had a Bosom composed of 365 layers of a very, very thin "secret" fabric. Each day a layer would be removed, presenting a new shirt front for each day in the year.

To this day Edison cannot understand how anyone can write a book. However, at one time he agreed to collaborate with an author on a fiction "thriller" in the style of Jules Verne and H. G. Wells. Amazing inventions, never heard of, were to be introduced, but the work never was completed. (Continued Tomorrow)

FASHION NOTE

Without Warmth or Weight, but with a great deal of chic, a sleeveless, decollete coat has made its appearance as one of the most dashing features of a number of formal evening costumes. Many of these so-called coats are solidly spangled, and are worn over frocks whose skirts are composed of tulle fabrics.

WHITE ROSE BREAD

Sunday Night Supper

By MARTHA LEE.

WHETHER your Sunday night supper is to be served only to your immediate family or a few casual guests, I'm a firm believer in dishes of unusual appeal—not too hard to prepare—that will make the Sunday supper stand out apart from all the other evening meals of the week.

For instance, tomato rarebit with a celery and apple salad, with Thousand Island dressing, orange biscuits and coffee is a combination not to be sneezed at.

The biscuit can be made first, and as they bake, the tomato rarebit prepared over the chafing dish. For the biscuit, sift four cups of flour, three level tablespoons of baking powder and a teaspoon of salt. Then cut in one-third cup of shortening with a knife and add one and three-quarters cups of milk to make a soft dough.

These are rolled out, cut into squares and placed on a greased baking sheet. Lip lumps of sugar one by one into orange juice and press a lump into each biscuit. Grate orange rind on top and bake in a hot oven while the rarebit is being prepared.

The rarebit can be made as I said over the chafing dish, and with a hostess in a dainty apron the picture is a lovely one, perhaps with candle light to add to its charm.

Two tablespoons of butter or butter substitute are melted in the pan, and then two tablespoons of flour blended in. Two tablespoons of chopped green pepper and one and one-half tablespoons of chopped onion will give zest and snap. Let this cook three minutes without browning. Next add a cup of canned tomatoes, and when the mixture boils it is placed over a hot water pan and in goes one cup of cut up cheese, one and one-quarter teaspoons of salt and a few grains of cayenne.

Just before serving add the yolks of two eggs slightly beaten and stir until the mixture thickens. Then fold in the whites, beaten stiff. Serve on crackers, with the steaming hot coffee and the pickles, and follow with the salad generously blanketed with the Thousand Island dressing.

The biscuit with the orange flavor will be unique, I think.

And then there is the time-wanted Chicken Wiggle, which is so easily made from the left-overs from dinner.

Chicken Wiggle—One and a half cups chicken meat, one cup peas, one-half cup mushrooms, one chopped pimento, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, two cups chicken stock, six tablespoons butter, six tablespoons flour and one teaspoon salt.

Serve this on patty shells or on hot baking powder biscuit.

Melt the butter, add the flour and blend well. Add salt and pepper and gradually stir in the chicken stock, continuing the stirring until it is smooth. Add the other ingredients and cool. This much you can prepare early in the day and set in the refrigerator to cool. Then reheat in a double boiler and pour over patty shells or hot baking powder biscuit, split and buttered.

Biscuits are particularly nice with this dish. The dough for them may be mixed hours ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator all ready to be slipped into the oven.

Spanish Cheese —One cupful tomato pulp, one tablespoon minced red pepper or a dash of cayenne, two eggs, one pound cheese, one tablespoon grated onion, one and one-half cupfuls milk, one tablespoon butter.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the onion and red pepper, then the seasoning. Cook for a few minutes, then add the tomato pulp. Mix well and when bubbling stir in the cheese, cut into small pieces; cook over a low fire or hot water until the cheese is soft, stirring constantly.

Beat the eggs in the milk and add to this mixture. Cook for one minute. Serve at once on toast or crisp waffles.

Pineapple Wheel Cake is extra good for company supper and is easily made thusly. Chopped peanuts may be substituted for the walnut meats.

The LIFE and LETTERS of WOODROW WILSON

RAY STANNARD BAKER.

Twelve Years of Thought, Writing and Lectures Proved Big Strain

Copyright, 1927, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

IN the other great field of Wilson's interest—Princeton and education—the outlook appeared scarcely better. The rifts were indeed deepening. The younger and more progressive group, led by Wilson, had become more powerful. Wilson's speech at the Sesquicentennial—especially the reaction in the educational world—had made a profound impression.

Other men were beginning to see how far the institution fell short of what it should be. But the leadership here, too, was hopeless! Wilson speaks of the "sinister influences at present dominant in the administration of the college."

If the chances within Princeton however, seemed poor, there were ever recurring and brilliant opportunities elsewhere. He was urged three times to take the presidency of the University of Virginia and found the offer tempting.

The trustees at Virginia were about to abolish the old Jeffersonian system of a governing board and they wanted Wilson for their first president.

The trustees and other friends, however, could not think of letting him leave Princeton. He was the "only stable prop of the college." They were determined to keep such a commanding figure at Princeton until the situation somehow cleared up.

But the university itself could not offer him directly an increase in income, since he already was the highest paid member of the faculty without creating a difficult situation. In this crisis a group of friends agreed that they would contribute annually a certain amount to increase his income.

For the period of five years beginning with the college year 1898-99 Wilson agrees that he will not sever his connection with Princeton University in order to accept a call to any other institution of learning; and that he will not during that time give any such course of lectures at any other institution of learning as will interrupt or interfere with the regular duties of instruction at Princeton University.

The men who signed, several of them members of the devoted class of '79, were Cyrus H McCormick, C. C. Cuyler, Cleveland H. Dodge, John L. Cadwalader, J. S. Morgan, Rollin H. Lynde, M. Taylor Pyne and Percy R. Pyne.

This arrangement gave Mr Wilson, for the first time in his life, a respite from the hard problem of making the income of a professor cover the expenses of his family and give him freedom for a little travel. He could now give up the lectureships at Hopkins and elsewhere and take more time for his literary enterprises.

But it did not cure the situation at Princeton. This was growing worse instead of better. As one of his friends in the faculty wrote to him in the Summer of 1899 while he was in Europe:

"We have had several informal gatherings of the faculm eaicon tents on West's porch. The excitement of the early days of the Summer has subsided and a sullen resentment seems to have taken its place in reference to the powers that be."

Has Friendship Rights? -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

LOVE THAT IS TOO SELF-ABSORBED DOES NOT LAST

ENCOURAGE THE PRESENCE OF A CIRCLE OF FRIENDS

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

WHEN a young man and a girl are fond of each other, but not engaged, should they go about exclusively with each other? Or should they welcome new friendships without sacrificing the old?

These questions are suggested by the following charming letter:

"We are twenty and nineteen years old, respectively. We have been going about together for a year. When we first went out together, as we learned later, neither felt any thrills or heart-throbs. There was a mutual attraction, but that was all.

"We went about together, frequently, however, and soon found we had exactly the same thoughts on nearly every subject, and were in general congenial companions.

"Neither of us has since met any one we care for as much as for each other. Our friendship ripened into a deep and beautiful love.

"Please tell us ours is an unusual case, and that, having found happiness with each other, we should cling to it until the day we shall be able to marry and live in greater happiness. This cannot come to pass until about four years. Some day we intend to marry.

"We sincerely hope you will agree with us. The feminine part of this concern has a sister who married a man she had been going with for ten years. They are still the same happy, accessible young people they were at the start.

"Do you think we can be as happy? We wish to thank you for your comments, whether or not you agree with us.

"MARGE AND TOM."

With all my heart I congratulate you, Marge and Tom, on the fine friendship that is gladdening your lives and brightening your plans for the future. Most decidedly, I feel that you should cultivate and enjoy that friendship. There is every reason why you should continue to be happy together.

Roam about—lose your heads! Now you know, I am sure, I would not advocate such a course.

Rule out jealousy. Try to be friendly with all worth while girls and young men you know. If you really love each other you can trust each other.

Tomorrow—Becky begins the story of her life.

Home Life Saved Him by Its Perfect Understanding

By 1900 Wilson had grown so hopeless both of his usefulness in recreating Princeton and of his influence, either direct or indirect, in public affairs, that he considered seriously the idea of devoting himself wholly to his literary work and especially to the great book, "The Philosophy of Politics" of which P. is which he had so long been planning.

But before he could carry out his plan he was elected, in June, 1902, to the presidency of Princeton University. A wholly new life was thenceforth to open to him.

During all of the years of Wilson's professorship at Princeton his home life, his social contacts and environment were near perfection. If they had not been he never could have accomplished such prodigies of labor. In the twelve years from 1890 to 1902 he not only carried on his university work with constantly growing success, but he delivered innumerable addresses—from New England to Colorado—he carried courses at Johns Hopkins and the New York Law School, he wrote books, essays, articles and reviews. He thought, wrote and lectured widely on educational theories and practices, and often on Sundays and at other times he talked to small groups and large on religious subjects. In 1896, as we have seen, he began to break under the strain of all these labors, combined with the anxieties that began to complicate the situation at Princeton.

But his home life saved him. It was not merely the physical comfort that surrounded him, but far more the perfect understanding and sympathy of Mrs. Wilson and the warm friendship of many of his associates in the faculty.

Mrs. Wilson was an excellent manager. It was she who truly kept the house, took entire charge of the entertainment—"she set a surprisingly good table"—made most of the clothing for the family, did every thing in her power to provide the conditions under which her husband could best do his work—and at the same time managed to keep up more or less of her art work. He told a friend that during one year the four largest items of her clothing cost only $40. She was proud of the fact that less was expended in some years to clothe the little family than Mr. Wilson used in buying books.

"I don't know how I can approve a gown which made you sit up too late—and neglect me (!); but it was certainly a triumph to make it for 30c." . . .

In addition to all of her other work she was the indispensable assistant of her husband in his literary labors. Everything he wrote was read aloud to her and she was his best and "hardest" critic. When there were proofs to read—and when were there not?—they read them together. They never made a task of it, but carried off the work with an unfailing gusto of interest and enthusiasm—indeed with a kind of playfulness.

"When working on the proofs he would, of course, read aloud all of the punctuation marks. Afterward at lunch or dinner his conversation would run along in the same style. 'So and so said comma quote Princeton will play Brown on Saturday comma to which so and so replied comma quote—period, and so on."

Mrs. Wilson Helped Out With His Writing Work

Mrs. Wilson helped her husband in many other ways. When his hand was crippled with neuritis, as in 1896, she wrote out innumerable letters to his dictation and he signed them with his left hand. Sometimes she herself added postscripts to the letters, enlarging upon certain aspects of the subjects under discussion with which she was familiar.

When Wilson was trying to persuade Professor Frederick J. Turner to come to Princeton in 1896 Mrs. Wilson enlarged upon the delicate problems that a professor must meet, incidentally giving a vivid glimpse of Princeton life at that time!

MONTHLY ACCOUNT.

Food and lights	$75.00
Servants	29.00
Rent	42.00
Coal	12.00
Water	4.00
	$162.00

"These items, with the exception of the plate item, are what we pay ourselves," she continued. "Our food and lights cost about $100 a month, but our family, including the two servants, averages ten persons, two of them being very large and hearty college boys. As a matter of fact, when our family was the size of yours I was able to keep that item down to $65.

"Mr. Wilson says he forgot to mention that the salary now proposed for your chair is $3,500, and he hopes to extract from them a definite promise to raise it to $4,000 in, say, two years. May I add that you really could not help making at least $500 a year more—people clamor so for lectures and 'articles'! It would be a great mistake on your part to suppose that Mr. Wilson is their only victim. All who have any use whatever of tongue or pen are seized upon! Mr. Wilson makes $1,500 every year; and last year when we were building, and he really tried himself, he made $4,000 extra—and almost killed himself doing it!

"Please excuse this very informal introduction of myself. I have written you so many pages that I can scarcely believe you are not my first friend, too. With sincere regards to Mrs. Turner and yourself, yours very cordially,

"ELLEN WILSON."

Each year, quite methodically, Wilson made out a budget of the necessary expenses, and an estimate of the amounts he expected to earn outside of his salary. He had qualms of Scotch thrift and began to get a little ahead. By 1896 they could hope to build a home of their own—a great adventure, indeed.

Mrs. Wilson herself worked out the plans, made many special efforts to provide a study for Mr. Wilson that would be inaccessible to chance visitors and find him the perfect quiet. When doubts were expressed about how certain parts of the roof would look when completed, Mr. Wilson made a model of the building from the architect's drawings so that it could be examined.

On the day after the Wilsons moved into their new house at No. 56 Library place, Mrs. Bliss Perry stopped in, expecting to find every thing in confusion. To her amazement, the house had a look of being perfectly settled, all the carpets down, all the pictures hung, all the books in place.

When she expressed her surprise Mrs. Wilson remarked that she had discovered that it was as easy to hire fifteen helpers for one day as it was to hire one helper for fifteen days, therefore she had settled in one day.

Here they were to live in great comfort for six years, until Wilson was chosen president of the university. It was a house built in the English style, half timbered, with stucco, standing back from the street among large trees.

Meantime was the great family event. There was always a gay and versatile, good stories, interesting people. One of his daughters remembers how her whole youth was "colored by fascinating talk." She was anxious to get home during college vacations because she was so fond of hearing the conversation of her father, her grandfather and "Uncle Stock."

Sometimes after dinner they would play a round or two of whist or euchre, sometimes "bag-gammon," as Wilson always pronounced it, more often they would sing old songs—he was a remarkable mimic and could tell endless dialect stories.

She can remember him dancing a jig with a silk hat tipped on one side of his head. She said he used to divide his family into the "proper members" Mrs. Wilson and Jessie, and the "vulgar members" (Nell and himself) Margaret he designated as "prorer part of the time and vulgar" all the rest!

He loved nonsense verses, and humorous stories, delighted to read them aloud, especially "The Bab Ballads," "Punch" and J. K. Stephens "Lapsus Calami," and nothing passed him more than a new story with a witty snap at the end of it or a limerick.

All of the sisters remember vividly the family reading both by their father and by their mother, their mother most of all. As soon as they could recall anything, Mrs. Wilson read aloud the greatest books in the world—the "Iliad," the "Odyssey," the "Faery Queene," "Idylls of the King," Green's "Short History of the English People," and so on. They also remember their father reading aloud to their mother while she painted.

It was indeed a family devoted to books. We have a glimpse of a Summer day in a letter written July 10, 1898, by Mrs. Wilson to her husband:

Settled Into a Regular Program, Says Letter

"The children seem to be having a very happy Summer. . . . We have settled into a regular program now—after breakfast stroll about the 'place,' gather sweetpeas, etc.; then we repair to the upper porch and our literary studies (?) in which we sometimes get so interested—the children begging for more and more—that we go on till 12 o'clock. We are going straight through the 'English Lands, Letters and Kings' with frequent extracts from Green and other things, and quantities of poetry, including Shakespeare's historical plays. We are also studying the map of England very faithfully, and I am about to send for some outline maps of England and Scotland that they may mark out for themselves the places they read about. During the heat of the day the all read Scott devotedly. Jessie has read sixteen of the novels now. Then in the afternoon they exchange visits with Beth or Margaret Sloane. After tea they either stroll with me or persuade me to play croquet with them. They fall in love with croquet all over again at Beth's and began playing it with one mallet, three broken balls and no wickets, the sad remains of their last set—the careless wretches! So I took pity on them and gave them a new set for Jessie's birthday present!"

On Sunday the entire family went regularly to church, but not to Sunday school, Mrs. Wilson preferring to teach the children herself. They were all required, just as their parents had been before them, to learn the Shorter Catechism.

They did not unite with any Princeton church, however, until June 3, 1897, Wilson found two rival Presbyterian churches in the village of Princeton, where he thought that one was quite enough. He and Mrs. Wilson finally joined the Second Church and he was soon elected an elder.

It is truly remarkable, the picture one gets in the private correspondence and in the reminiscences of those who knew the Wilson family intimately, of the charming quality of their home life.

so that for some moments he feared to speak.

At last: "It's Spring. The time of metamorphosis," he murmured.

And so my little cocoon of a cocky is going to be a butterfly.

"A poor kind of butterfly, Boris, she replied, staring blindly at the faintly salmon colored sky. "Call it a moth, Boris. Say a moth that's had her wings singed, and won't fly near a candle again."

"So-so sad, Becky, when you ought to be most happy. But that's the effect of so-spring. It makes us dream strange dreams, and long for something that has no name. But that's all over with you and codger like me. You must drive it out. You must be gay. Why my child, you have everything. Youth, beauty, love—"

"Love! Don't joke with me Boris. I don't believe there is such a thing. It's just a word invented for the movies, that's all."

"B-Becky. Good Lord, this isn't like y-y-y-you. Why John Estabrook simply adores the ground you walk on."

"Put your monocle straight, Boris, and look at life again. You were right about that boy in the first place. What was it you said chorus girls want to hint? Ambrosia?"

Abelard looked down on her gently. "You m-mean?"

"He wanted me all right, Boris. Good enough girl to play around with. Sure But as for marriage. Oh Boris, Boris, if you had heard what he said. About what his wife had to be. And what I was. And I loved him, Boris. God, so much so uselessly." She swung away from the window, and he heard her pacing in the room behind him, struggling to keep her voice low. But the story, the whole hateful story, was out, torn from her like some bleeding organ under the surgeon's knife. Only the money—the fact that Estabrook had offered to pay her rent—that she could not speak of. That was the final indignity. It was too much.

"P-p-poor, miserable little moth." Abelard whispered, his own pain rising like a flood to mingle with hers. "Ah. . . . but not a m-moth. A white lotus, that's what you are to my mind, Becky. A b-b-beautiful lotus bud that's bloomed too soon, and shed its heavenly fragrance for a worshipper who was not w-worthy."

"Worthy. What do I care about worthy? It's that something's died inside me Boris Something good and clean was born, and it's dead My whole life's been made dirty, made cheap. I'll never be able to believe in any love again I'll never be happy again. I hate life."

Abelard, trembling, crossed to her and put his bony, gentle hands on her shoulders.

"B-Becky," he said, "You mustn't say that, or even think it. The world's full of heavy things, and disappointments, but there are good things, too, and there's love enough left, my dear, for every dear child." He drew his breath, leaning forward to see the pallid oval of her face in the tenuous dusk. "I love you, Becky," he stammered. "I've loved you f-for so long. I'm not handsome, I'm an ugly devil, I know, and perhaps a little mad as well. But I'd love you with all my heart, and I can't bear to see you suffer. It's not true that there's no decent love Becky. S-see, I don't want anything from you. I only want to help you to find peace again, to m-make up a little bit for the dark hours of your p-precious life."

"Don't Boris . . . Oh, Boris darling, this hurts, too. I didn't believe there were people like you left. I don't deserve it honey . . . I'm only worth forgetting."

"I'll n-never love any one but you B-Becky!" He took her hands. "I couldn't expect you to c-care about an unattractive devil like me. B-but we'll travel and see the world, and you'll have all your p-p-precious heart desires. I'll do my best to make you happy, dear. If you—if you don't find me too repulsive."

"Repulsive! Oh, Boris, Boris, you're the best and kindest man in the whole universe."

"W-will you do me the honor, th-than, of being my wife, Becky?"

After a pause: "Boris, I can't," Becky cried in a voice shaken with grief, "I'm married, Boris. I was married this morning. I only came to say goodbye."

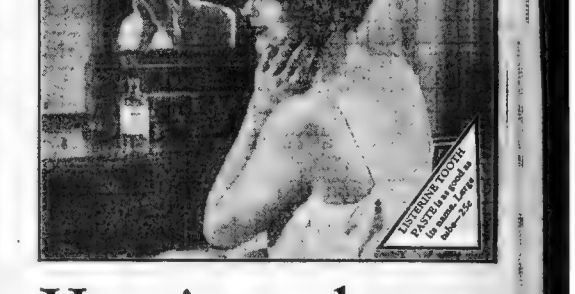
Oily Skin?



Here is good news

If you are troubled with oily skin, enlarged pores or occasional face blemishes, try Listerine for a week or two. It is a natural astringent. And it gets results equal to those of preparations costing from three to five times as much.

Your skin will feel and look better from the moment you begin to use it—and your pocketbook will appreciate the saving.

It is particularly effective as a treatment for oily skins and may be used full strength. For dryer, more delicate skins, it should be diluted.

Perhaps you'd be interested in receiving our handy little free book of etiquette. Just write for it to the Lambert Pharmacal Company, Dept. L-9, 2101 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

Of a Playful Nature, Declares George Howe

George Howe, who lived in the home in Library Place during much of his college course, remembers Wilson as of "a playful nature, playful both of mind and body. He loved to tease the young people."

For physical exercise or outdoor games or sport Wilson cared little as a participant, though he greatly enjoyed watching baseball and football games. He liked walking and during his period as a Princeton professor it was a familiar sight to see him riding back and forth between his home and his classes on his bicycle.

In 1893 he learned to play golf, though he referred with relish to General Grant's attitude toward the game. The General, who did not play golf, was watching a friend who thought he did. Finally Grant spoke up:

"That's very good exercise," he said, "but what is the little ball for?"

Nearly every Summer the family escaped from the heat of Princeton for a vacation, at first to the mountains of Virginia, later to the lakes of northern Ontario, which proved so charming that Wilson bought an island for a permanent resort, but did not afterwards use it.

He also tried the Adirondacks, and the seashore at Gloucester, and spent a Summer or two at Lyme, Ct., where Mrs. Wilson could carry on her art work. Two vacations during his professorship he traveled in England—both times because of broken health. These interesting foreign adventures, of which we have complete accounts in his letters, will be treated later.

But the vacations were never times of idleness or even of complete rest. Wilson loved a large part of the time upon the books his essays, his lectures. As his reputation grew, there were alarming lecture trips, as we shall see, and a deepening interest in politics and public life.

Wilson's friends of the Princeton days—both men and women—will appear in tomorrow's chapter.

AUCTION BRIDGE

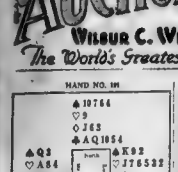
The World's Greatest Authority

HAND NO. 101



South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

South bids his four-card Major first, hoping in reserve his five-card Minor. West's bid of two Clubs, North's pass, and East's bid of two Spades, followed in the natural order of bidding. On the second round, South showed his Diamond suit. West, with but two Spades, could not assist his partner nor had he the necessary strength for a re-bid of Clubs. East, failing an ace at for his Spades, now helps his partner, and carries the bidding to five Clubs on the following round.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. Declarer holds three losing Hearts and one losing Diamond. If Dummy can ruff two of these losers while at the same time his adversaries are prevented from ruffing any winners, then the contract can be made. Declarer plans his play accordingly.

Trick 7. Due to the uneven distribution of the adverse trumps and South's persistence in leading them, Declarer is left with insufficient trumps in Dummy to carry out his original scheme. He therefore turns to Spades for an extra trick in game. Marking South with a singleton Spade on account of its length in three suits, Declarer seeks an immediate finesse in this suit, but leads his Jack to place Dummy in position for a finesse on the second round.

Tricks 9 and 10. Declarer finesses Spades and secures a discard of his losing Heart.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY---BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

THIS is the time of the year when thousands of men are having their annual breakdowns.

ONE man caught the seven-year Itch last Summer and is way behind in his scratching.

HIS brother has St. Vitus' Dance and he's been helping him shake.

HE shook so hard the other day that he broke three seismographs in Washington.

THE poor fellow was so nervous he sent his wife away for his health.

HE had insomnia and sleeping sickness and was trying to devote his time to both of them.

THE physician said he was suffering from a bad case of quoits. He tossed all night.

THE patient didn't realize how sick he was until the doctors asked for their money in advance.

THEY were afraid he might die without leaving any forwarding address.

HE went out of his mind twice, but they were both short trips.

HE had two nurses. One for the medicine and one for holding hands.

THEY were beautiful girls and would have been blondes if they had followed the directions on the bottle.

THE specialists had a hard time diagnosing his case. They claimed he had caught Jaundice from riding in Yellow taxicabs.

IT'S a wonder he didn't get scarlet fever from the tail lights.

THERE'S no such thing as contageon. You can't get chicken pox from running around with flappers.

WE'VE got to have a little sickness now and then. If everybody was healthy, doctors would be touring the country on street cars.

Cleans Inside, and Pores Free from Any Taint

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of cascara.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrans with the waste ! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for sure-intoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take "more." And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c a box.

I SEARCHED a long time for any real relief from my bad auto-intoxication. Strong purgatives just drove the poisons into my perspiration until I felt like avoiding people. I'm all serene now, just through occasional use of—

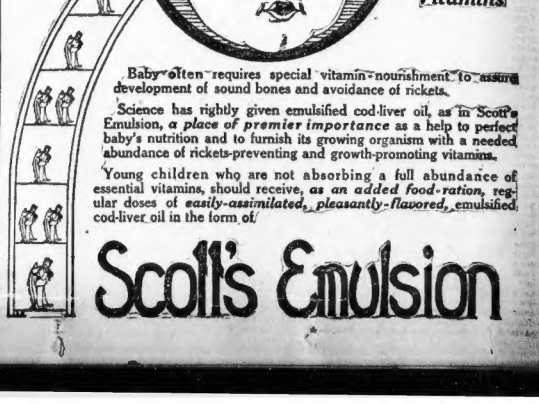
A coated tongue is a danger signal! It's a sure sign of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. And it's a sure sign that you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope. Read what

Mrs. Dora Robillard, of Bellingham, Mass. R.F.D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion nor appetite. Sick headaches laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even do light housework. Now I do all our cooking and washing in addition to the other work."

That coated tongue tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells. See how the first bottle of Tanlac helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.



Every Baby Needs Vitamins
Baby often requires special vitamin nourishment to assure development of sound bones and avoidance of rickets.
Science has rightly given emulsified cod-liver oil, as in Scott's Emulsion, a place of premier importance as a help to perfect baby's nutrition and to furnish its growing organism with a needed abundance of rickets-preventing and growth-promoting vitamins.
Young children who are not absorbing a full abundance of essential vitamins, should receive, as an added food-ration, regular doses of easily-assimilated, pleasantly-flavored, emulsified cod-liver oil in the form of How Long Must We Stand for This Sort of Thing?

This is the sort of thing Frisby promises to stop if chosen for Vice President.

FRISBY NAILS LIE; RIPS LID OFF LIPS

BY MR. FRISBY
Our Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—I want to come out unqualifiedly—four square—in favor of Frisby-for-Vice-President Clubs throughout the land.

I will not mince words. "Frisby strikes straight from the shoulder," as they say.

"What," asks the Rev. Alfred Davidson, writing from Pago Pago, "do you stand for?"

Why, my dear friends, I stand for anything.

Frisby is only human—"Tolerant Frisby—the Man Who Understands," is what they call me around the Y. M. C. A.

And yet I am firm. I detest a wishy-washy Vice-President, don't you? Of course you do.

My aim will be to get back to the Constitution. We have wandered far afield. New conditions call for new attitudes. An old shoe fits best. No bill is too steep for a trotting horse. Don't hold the bone so high that the dog won't jump. Never take two bites of a cherry.

There, friends, you have Frisby's attitude in a nutshell.

Bad Boy Finds $110

Pretty Good!

A 14-year-old boy walked along Main Street, Brockton, the other day. He was whistling. It was a fine day.

At Pleasant Street he stopped to pick up a pocketbook, opened it and—— "my gracious!"—— found $110 in it.

This young man had been tagged "bad boy." He was out on parole from the State Training School. What he had been incarcerated for does not appear. "Disobedient child," maybe, or a weakness for playing "hookey" from school.

The "bad boy" found the nearest policeman, a traffic officer of the name of Cassidy. He handed Mr. Cassidy the wallet. Cassidy took them both to the police station. Mrs. Mary McKenna, of North Easton, called there later to claim her property and give the youngster a "generous" reward.

Nor is that the whole of the story. City Marshal Boyden is in conference with the parole agent. It is the marshal's earnest recommendation, in which other good fellows everywhere will join, that the boy be dismissed from probation, "with honor."

It is now several months since Deputy Commissioner of Probation Herbert C. Parsons reported, as one of the results of a survey, that there is no adult court record whatever against 82 per cent. of those Massachusetts offenders who have completed their probation as juveniles.

If there are any who look upon the probation system as a failure they may not be convinced by this true story about a Brockton, "bad" boy but nevertheless the instance will be comforting and encouraging to Commissioner Sanford Bates and all who agree with him in the policy of giving a fellow a chance.

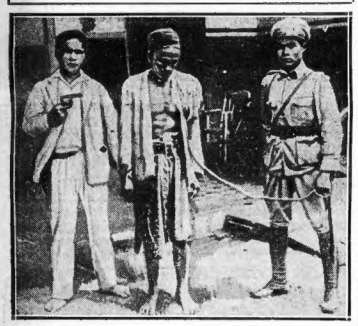
He Didn't Last Long



COMMUNI'T OF WEST JAVA, ON HIS WAY TO DEATH

Here and there in the East, thanks to Russian propaganda, there have been Communistic uprisings by natives of different countries. The miserable natives, who are as far from understanding the theories of Karl Marx as they are from understanding differential calculus, were led to believe that if they would rise and "throw off their chains," as Karl Marx put it, everything would be charming.

They DID rise, and here you see one of them, sadder and wiser. The authorities have got him, and he won't last long. He knows now that the chains which Communists told him he wore, were not as heavy as the rope that will soon be around his neck, or as deadly as the bullet that will soon pierce his breast.

To let other people put THEIR ideas into YOUR head and to let those ideas, not your own, direct your destiny, is dangerous, as many men and nations have discovered.

Some Checks to Overpopulation

A Yale savant, who had apparently been counting noses and casting up possibilities, suddenly announced on an unprepared public the dire news that the population of Earth will be exactly 100 per cent. thicker in fifty years. We may venture the hope that the professor means denser.

Several agencies ever at work may interfere somewhat with the professor's plans—prohibition liquor, reckless drivers and indiscriminate sale of firearms, to say nothing of war.

The statement that there will not be enough jobs to go round will not worry some members of the coming generation as much as one might think.

Two Sides to Patent Issue

Senator Brookhart intends to renew the proposal that future patents be held by the Government, but made available for those who want to use them, the inventor to get royalty.

He believes this would spur invention, reduce the burying of improvements and increase wholesome competition.

What it might also do would be to discourage research in big industries, where the work is done by paid staffs for the benefit of the institution. The problem is not so simple as he sees it.

CHRISTIANITY IN MODERN TIMES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PRESIDENT WILLIAM GREEN, of the American Federation of Labor, declared the other day that the church "must interpret the spirit of Christianity and it must translate its teachings into action in order to bring about acceptance of its principles and its philosophy."

To be sure. But the preacher or other man who attempts to put the principles of Jesus into practical operation is sure headed for trouble.

People may question whether or not Jesus was the Son of God or the Savior of the world or born of a virgin, but without question he represented a view of life absolutely unique.

In all quarrels between labor and capital, in most lawsuits and in difficulties between nations, some party always insists that people go back to the principles of Jesus. It is universally recognized that if everybody practiced those truths we would not have much more trouble.

It took a long while for the world to find out that dueling was not a satisfactory way to defend one's honor. It is much better to relegate such things to a higher tribunal than to settle them one's self.

It took a great war in the United States to pound into us that human slavery was wrong and didn't pay.

This lumbering old world is a long while in getting up to anything like the adoption of the principles of Jesus.

We are yet a long way from doing away with war, and national egotism and touchiness are looked on as virtues and called patriotism.

When Tolstoy was told that those who practiced the teachings of Christ had a hard time in this world, he replied "How about other people? Do those people who do not practice the principles of Christ have an especially easy time?"

What the world needs is more and more of the people who are bold enough to put the truths of Christ into practical operation and brave enough to commend themselves and their careers to those truths.

Christ was more than the Saviour of the world or a figure on a crucifix; he was a philosopher and really taught the world the best method for people to get along together. We are a long way from finding this out.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

AFTER sunset comes the thought of the deed you left undone, of the word you did not say, of the beggar turned away, these return at set of sun. After sunset, when the light is a glory in the west and its rare, reflected glow, gliding fields of endless snow, lingers on the mountain's crest, walk the ranks of splendid things, words and acts that might have been, friendly hands you might have grasped, love you did not pause to win. Never, through the busy day, do they come to vex your peace; but when twilight shad-own fall creeping slowly over all, sunset gives these ghosts release.
Why not change this sombre train to a pageant of delight where shapes gay and gracious move? Why not let faith, kindness, love, after sunset lend life light?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE custody of the child—who gets it in our divorce mills? Nine times out of ten, the mothers.

Even when the court awards the father the privilege of having the child over week-ends, the mother is the virtual custodian. Public sentiment is behind this.

"A Mother should have her child," we murmur sympathetically. "Mothers understand children better."

So little Bill goes to Mama. And, from then on, what chance does Bill's Dad have of influencing his son's life? Not a chance. For not only is little Bill brought up in a woman's world, but he is trained to believe by Mama and her family, that Papa has a cloven hoof and a couple of pairs of horns. On the rare occasion when Bill does visit his father, he is instructed to spy upon him beforehand, and carefully questioned on his return. Naturally he learns to distrust his father and disregard his advice.

Most mothers would be righteously indignant if told that this practice is viciously unfair. They sincerely believe that their children belong to them, that mothers do more for children than fathers, and that fathers forfeit their paternal rights in divorce.

None of these assumptions are true.

The mothers have no greater equity in the child than the father. Any honest woman who has been forced to be both father and mother to her child will admit that the hand that rocks the cradle has nothing on the fist that brings home the bacon, when it comes to hard labor.

Also there is no ground for the common assumption that the divorced husband is a less worthy guardian for a child than the mother. Our divorce complaints are ambiguous. They rarely tell the real truth. It is our chivalrous custom to allow the lady to get the divorce. As a matter of fact, she causes the divorce, quite as often as her mate. Males have no corner on cussedness.

Moreover, even the tenderest, wisest and most righteous of women cannot fill a father's place in a boy's life. Boys need dads. They need the influence of masculine virility and carelessness. They need contact with a man's more impersonal viewpoint and his standard of values, and a man's ability to make sensible adjustments and compromises. And the lack of this contact constitutes one of the gravest perils in our divorce situation.

And, while we're on the subject we might as well complete the broadside. Children are suffering from the Mama Complex not only in divorce, but in marriages as well. THE AVERAGE AMERICAN HOME IS A MATRIARCHY. Papa, after he hands over the pay check has about the rating of a vacuum cleaner. No wonder that many of them are losing heart in their jobs. And our national backbone is showing the effect.

HOW THE SENSES ARE CONFOUNDED

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"Is it possible for a person's sense of taste to be affected by music?

ALL of the senses that are dependent primarily upon touch—and taste as well as smell are of that class—occasionally become more or less confounded, or intermingled in their effect upon the nerves. Hearing, too, is closely associated with touch, since it is the result of the impact or pressure of sound waves on the drum of the ear and of the reaction of the movements of the drum upon the inner mechanism. When the messages conveyed to the brain by different nerves of sensation are habitually associated, one may recall or awaken its mate. Interesting experiments have lately shown that the glands in the mouth secreting saliva may be excited to action by musical sounds that have been purposely associated with the act of eating. Thus the mouths of dogs that have been accustomed to hear certain sounds simultaneously with the mastication of their food begin to water, and their appetite is awakened if the accustomed sounds are heard even when food is not present. The sounds affect them much as the smell of the food would do, for although there is no natural association between the senses of taste and of hearing, habit is able to create such an association.

The experience, however, goes much farther than this, and is worthy of analysis by some experienced psychologist. You may, to a certain extent, perform the analysis yourself by noting carefully, and writing down, the precise relations that you observe between particular tastes or flavors and corresponding tunes or notes. Find out also, if you can, whether the peculiarity is hereditary. Did your parents, or other members of your family, ever experience anything of the kind? This is an important point to be considered in all such cases.

There is not the slightest reason for your being at all disturbed by this singular association of the effects of two different senses. Just what part in the phenomenon should be assigned to imagination it is difficult to say, but you would be greatly interested by Francis Galton's book, "Inquiries Into Human Faculty," published in the Everyman Library. There you may read of some truly astonishing mental associations between the various sensations of color and the form of the letters of the alphabet or the figures representing numbers, or certain names or words.
